Communists Like Us Félix Guattari, Antonio Negri, 1990 Cyber-Marx Nick Dyer-Witheford, 1999 In this highly readable and thought provoking work Nick Dyer Witheford assesses the relevance of Marxism in our time and demonstrates how the information age far from transcending the historic conflict between capital and its laboring subjects constitutes the latest battleground in their encounter Dyer Witheford maps the dynamics of modern capitalism showing how capital depends for its operations not just on exploitation in the immediate workplace but on the continuous integration of a whole series of social sites and activities from public health and maternity to natural resource allocation and the geographical reorganization of labor power He also shows how these sites and activities may become focal points of subversion and insurgency as new means of communication vital for the smooth flow of capital also permit otherwise isolated and dispersed points of resistance to connect and combine with one another Cutting through the smokescreen of high tech propaganda Dyer Witheford predicts the advent of a reinvented autonomist Marxism that will rediscover the possibility of a collective communist transformation of society Refuting the utopian promises of the information revolution he discloses the real potentialities for a new social order in the form of a twenty first century communism based on the common sharing of wealth In Letters of Blood and Fire George Caffentzis, 2013-04-01 Karl Marx remarked that the only way to write about the origins of capitalism is in the letters of blood and fire used to drive workers from the common lands forests and waters in the sixteenth century In this collection of essays George Caffentzis argues that the same is true for the annals of twenty first century capitalism Information technology immaterial production financialization and globalization have been trumpeted as inaugurating a new phase of capitalism that puts it beyond its violent origins Instead of being a period of major social and economic novelty however the course of recent decades has been a return to the fire and blood of struggles at the advent of capitalism Emphasizing class struggles that have proliferated across the social body of global capitalism Caffentzis shows how a wide range of conflicts and antagonisms in the labor capital relation express themselves within and against the work process These struggles are so central to the dynamic of the system that even the most sophisticated machines cannot liberate capitalism from class struggle and the need for labor Themes of war and crisis permeate the text and are given singular emphasis documenting the peculiar way in which capital perpetuates violence and proliferates misery on a world scale This collection draws upon a careful rereading of Marx's thought in order to elucidate political concerns of the day Originally written to contribute to the debates of the anticapitalist movement over the last thirty years this book makes Caffentzis's writings readily available as tools for the struggle in this period of transition to a common future Investigation of Communist Propaganda United States.
