

Boost biodiversity with your woodland design by...

1 Protecting trees

from browsing mammals
with appropriate fencing, tree guards, or tubes.

3 Incorporating open space within and around the forest, to encourage different species to rest and feed.

2 Designing with future forest management in mind such as continuous cover forestry or coppicing to encourage diverse tree heights and ages.

4 Reconnecting existing woodland to create vital nature networks allowing wildlife to move between habitats.

5 Integrating native woodland to retain wildlife-rich habitats. Oak trees alone support over 2,300 species.

7 Incorporating diverse tree species to increase woodland resilience against pests and climate change.

6 Buffering ancient woodlands to support this irreplaceable ecosystem that covers just 2% of the UK's land.

8 Protecting priority habitats and species to ensure woodland fits within the broader ecological landscape.

9 Controlling non-native invasive species by removing them quickly to limit any impact on biodiversity.

10 Allowing natural processes to occur to shape and create diverse and rich habitats to benefit many species.

11 Maintaining wet woodland features to support a wealth of plants, insects and wildlife.

Designing Sustainable Forest Landscapes , Spon's Landscape Handbook Derek Lovejoy Partnership,1997 Ten years after the 3rd edition this handbook has been totally rewritten to take into account legislative changes the use of CAD techniques and new British Standards Government Publications Great Britain. Her Majesty's Stationery Office,1993

New Cultural Landscapes Maggie Roe,Ken Taylor,2014-01-21 While historical and protected landscapes have been well studied for years the cultural significance of ordinary landscapes is now increasingly recognised This groundbreaking book discusses how contemporary cultural landscapes can be and are created and recognised The book challenges common concepts of cultural landscapes as protected or special landscapes that include significant buildings or features Using case studies from around the world it questions the usual measures of judgement related to cultural landscapes and instead focuses on landscapes that are created planned or simply evolve as a result of changing human cultures management policy and practice Each contribution analyses the geographical and human background of the landscape and policies and management strategies that impact upon it and defines the meanings of cultural landscape in its particular context Taken together they establish a new paradigm in the study of landscapes in all forms Farming, Forestry and the Natural Heritage Scottish Natural Heritage,2006-07-27 There have been significant changes to farming and forestry and new strategies for agriculture forestry and biodiversity have been launched The influence of farming and forestry on Scotland s landscapes is seen as increasingly important and new access rights have been put in place by the Land Reform Scotland Act 2003 Although these changes bring uncertainty and challenges they also bring a major opportunity to move decisively towards integrating landscape biodiversity and recreational objectives in land management This book takes stock of the changes taking places and considers a number of case studies which together suggest that progress is being made looks ahead at future research and advisory needs and highlights some key challenges to achieving better integration in the future

European Forest Recreation and Tourism Simon Bell,Murray Simpson,2009-05-07 Please note the 2015 paperback is a reprint of the original 2008 hardback In an increasingly urbanized world more and more people are turning to our forests and woodland for recreation and tourism Planning and providing for this growing demand poses challenges that need to be addressed by managers and designers alike Based on a study of forest recreation from across Europe the editors bring together the expertise of more than eighty leading professionals and academics to provide a clear and concise guide to best practice Case studies and careful research give a detailed insight into the issues that forest recreation raises from strategic planning to integration into the existing rural economy Essential reading for tourism planners landscape designers and countryside managers delivering forest recreation and tourism Sustainable Housing Design Guide for Scotland Fionn Stevenson,Nick Williams,2000 A guide on how to incorporate sustainability principles into maintaining rehabilitating and developing housing Commission by Scottish Homes originally for housing associations in Scotland the general principles of
