Community As Healing Micah D. Hester, 2001-07-03 The brief history of 20th century bioethics has been dominated by discussions of principles and appeals to autonomy that both divorce theory from practice and champion a notion of the individual as prior to and isolated from society Pragmatism on the other hand has long sought to reconstruct ethical thought with the belief that distinctions between theory and practice individual and society are not a priori starting points but purposeful developments of inquiry Using insights from classic pragmatism the author proposes reconstructive accounts of physician patient relationships resulting in an emphasis on aiding the process of meaningful significant living for all individuals involved in medical encounters William James John Dewey and George Herbert Mead among others provide discussions of human relationships which accentuate the situatedness of problems and solutions and stress the need for building shared experience in order to develop both self and community With an insistence on a recognition of a functional concept of the self or self as social product the author's pragmatic position illuminates the integration of self with the community and leads to a new practice in the medical encounter based on an attitude of community as healing

Chambers, 2024-11-19 It has traditionally been accepted that one cannot derive how the world ought to be from the way the world is The discipline of bioethics endeavors to respond to ethical issues as they arise in the world For these issues to be analyzed they must first be described Redescribing Bioethics How the Field Constructs Its Argument argues the descriptions bioethicists provide of the moral problems anticipate the proposed solution to these problems To understand the rhetorical power of bioethics arguments we need to reverse the structure of the argument seeing the anticipated solution as driving the presentation of the problem Arguing the story of bioethics is as much one of powerful redescription as of proposed solutions Tod S Chambers examines seven rhetorical strategies in how bioethics texts have steered readers toward a particular moral vision of the world retrodiction anagnorisis imbalance dissociation metaphor sources and hypertextuality Through these techniques bioethicists construct a world in which their particular moral theory thrives and alternative theories will struggle Pragmatic Judgments in Direct Patient Care Bernhard Bleyer, 2023-02-15 Why does a hospital need an ethics consultation And what about this counselling is ethical The book explains the background of the development of clinical ethics counselling It provides new insights into serious decision making conflicts in everyday clinical life and uncovers the disputes that followed in public In the search for the ethical understanding of clinical ethics counselling the book comes across previously unexplored evidence Step by step a system is reconstructed that reveals the shape of a significant philosophical school of thought American Philosophy Erin McKenna, Scott L.
