Managing Emerging Risk Kevin D. Burton, 2017-11-15 From Main Street to Mumbai Managing Emerging Risk The Capstone of Preparedness considers the new global drivers behind threats and hazards facing all those tasked with protecting the public and private sector The text delves into the global mindset of public and private sector emergency managers and presents a new risk landscape vastly different from the one existing ten years ago The book begins by presenting a series of fictitious scenarios each resulting in mass destruction and fatalities These are each followed by actual news stories that support the scenarios and demonstrate that the proposed events seemingly unthinkable have the potential to occur Next the author identifies two drivers in the practice of emergency management and general preparedness today

The State of Democracy in the Americas United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Foreign Relations. Subcommittee on Western Hemisphere, Peace Corps, and Global Narcotics Affairs, 2011

Reframing Police Education and Freedom in America Martin Alan Greenberg, Beth Allen Easterling, 2023-09-15 This book untangles the components of police education and advocates a robust community based training model with significant civilian oversight The recommended approach recognizes that the citizenry needs to be included in the provision of basic police education for it is they who must both support and be served by their police The police must be role models for society demonstrating that freedom and rights come with obligations both to the community as a whole and to individuals in need within that community Ultimately the quality of police training and the public's safety depend not only on the leadership of police executives as well as the quality of educational institutions and police candidates but also on the building of a community's trust in its police The issues of police recruitment education and retention have greater consequence in an era when protests and other signs of negativity surround law enforcement Several incidents including most notably George Floyd's murder by police have sparked new training initiatives regarding police de-escalation and community engagement At the same time the proliferation of gun violence and a contentious political climate have led some officers to refrain from undertaking proactive types of policing In this context reform of the police education system is urgent This book examines police training at all levels of government local regional state and federal In addition citizen participation programs including the role of the media and programs for furthering law-related education LRE are highlighted The proposed police education model recognizes that ordinary members of the American public need to contribute to the provision of basic police education for it is they who must both support and be served by their police The focus is on teaching a guardian style of policing at the local level Police education would combine higher education necessary practical proficiencies and intensive field experiences through a gradual level of greater responsibility likely extending over a 2 plus year period for trainees with less than a year of previous college credits This book will be of interest to a wide range of audiences such as law enforcement professionals and trainers including those in executive development programs in police departments community leaders scholars and policy experts who specialize in policing concerned citizens and students of criminal justice especially those interested in police organization and management criminal justice policy and the historical development of police

Popular Media and Communication Karen Ross, Stuart Price, 2008 This collection of essays has its origins in the MeCCSA 2007 conference held in Coventry in January that year Like most edited volumes which emerge from conference contexts this one comprises a richly diverse set of original papers which span the various themes and topics which together make up the fascinating field of media and communication The book is broadly divided into four sections media public media workers and professional identity media industries and policy concerns and political communication The first section looks at the transformation of the private and public spheres through new technologies and the phenomenon and implications of audience-mediated genres such as reality TV The second part of the book looks at media practice from the point of view of both content and the self-policing of professional norms The third part considers media policy including gender issues within the Scottish creative industries and the history and future of the BBC charter The last section looks at political communication and essays here are concerned with elite political rhetoric together with a consideration of the internet's impact on political activism The editors believe that within the wide ranging subject matter our authors have considered a common theme emerges This is the way in which contemporary communication acts are structured by a number of closely related forces capital technology social norms resistive practices and gendered subjectivity all contribute to the production of public meaning
