the effectiveness of the IES in particular very high levels of short term mobility The selection of sites also allowed a comparison between the enumeration process in the Northern Territory where a time extended rolling count was explicitly planned for and Western Australia where a modified form of the standard count had been envisaged The findings suggest that the IES has reached a point in its development where the injection of ever increasing resources into essentially the same generic set and structure of activities may be producing diminishing returns There is a need for a new kind of engagement between the Australian Bureau of Statistics and local government and Indigenous community sector organisations in remote Australia The agency and local knowledge of Indigenous people could be harnessed more effectively through an ongoing relationship with such organisations to better address the complex contingencies confronting the census process in remote Indigenous Australia
