Innovation Happens Elsewhere Ron Goldman, Richard P. Gabriel, 2005-04-25 It's a plain fact regardless of how smart creative and innovative your organization is there are more smart creative and innovative people outside your organization than inside Open source offers the possibility of bringing more innovation into your business by building a creative community that reaches beyond the barriers of the business The key is developing a web driven community where new types of collaboration and creativity can flourish Since 1998 Ron Goldman and Richard Gabriel have been helping groups at Sun Microsystems understand open source and advising them on how to build successful communities around open source projects In this book the authors present lessons learned from their own experiences with open source as well as those from other well known projects such as Linux Apache and Mozilla Winner of 2006 Jolt Productivity Award for General Books Describes how open source development works and offers persuasive reasons for using it to help achieve business goals Shows how to use open source in day to day work discusses the various licenses in use and describes what makes for a successful project Written in an engaging style for executives managers and engineers that addresses the human and business issues involved in open source development as well as its history philosophy and future

Wired TV Denise Mann, 2014-02-11 This collection looks at the post network television industry's heady experiments with new forms of interactive storytelling or wired TV that took place from 2005 to 2010 as the networks responded to the introduction of broadband into the majority of homes and the proliferation of popular participatory Web 2.0 companies like Facebook YouTube and Twitter Contributors address a wide range of issues from the networks sporadic efforts to engage fans using transmedia storytelling to the production inefficiencies that continue to dog network television to the impact of multimedia convergence and multinational corporate conglomeration on entrepreneurial creativity With essays from such top scholars as Henry Jenkins John T Caldwell and

Jonathan Gray and from new and exciting voices emerging in this field Wired TV elucidates the myriad new digital threats and the equal number of digital opportunities that have become part and parcel of today's post network era Readers will quickly recognize the familiar television franchises on which the contributors focus including Lost The Office Entourage Battlestar Gallactica The L Word and Heroes in order to reveal their impact on an industry in transition While it is not easy for vast bureaucracies to change course executives from key network divisions engaged in an unprecedented period of innovation and collaboration with four important groups members of the Hollywood creative community who wanted to expand television's storytelling worlds and marketing capabilities by incorporating social media members of the Silicon Valley tech community who were keen to rethink television distribution for the digital era members of the Madison Avenue advertising community who were eager to rethink ad supported content and fans who were enthusiastic and willing to use social media story extensions to proselytize on behalf of a favorite network series In the aftermath of the lengthy Writers Guild of America strike of 2007-2008 the networks clamped down on such collaborations and began to reclaim control over their operations locking themselves back into an aging system of interconnected bureaucracies entrenched hierarchies and traditional partners from the past What's next for the future of the television industry Stay tuned or at least online
