Commons And Borderlands Working Papers On Interdisciplinarity Accountability And The Flow Of Knowledge:

Commons and Borderlands Marilyn Strathern, 2004 A leading social anthropologist examines early 21st century interests in interdisciplinarity with particular attention to the conjunction of science and society Archaeology Commons and Borderlands: to 25; Pages: 26 to 50; Pages: 51 to 75; Pages: 76 to 100; Pages: 101 to 120 Marilyn Strathern, 2003 In Commons and Borderlands a leading social anthropologist examines early twenty first century interests in interdisciplinarity with particular attention to the conjunction of science and society Interdisciplinary practice has become well entrenched in any number of scientific disciplines or disciplines from the humanities or from social science for that matter This does not deter current rhetoric which sees new opportunities in new combinations of interests One arresting strand is the promise that in a strong form transdisciplinarity science might thereby be brought into society Interdisciplinarity Andrew Barry, Georgina Born, 2013-06-26 The idea that research should become more interdisciplinary has become commonplace According to influential commentators the unprecedented complexity of problems such as climate change or the social implications of biomedicine demand interdisciplinary efforts integrating both the social and natural sciences In this context the question of whether a given knowledge practice is too disciplinary or interdisciplinary or not disciplinary enough has become an issue for governments research policy makers and funding agencies Interdisciplinarity in short has emerged as a key political preoccupation yet the term tends to obscure as much as illuminate the diverse practices gathered under its rubric This volume offers a new approach to theorising interdisciplinarity showing how the boundaries between the social and natural sciences are being reconfigured It examines the current preoccupation with interdisciplinarity notably the ascendance of a particular discourse in which it is associated with a transformation in the relations between science technology and society Contributors address attempts to promote collaboration between on the one hand the natural sciences and engineering and on the other the social sciences arts and humanities From ethnography in the IT industry to science and technology studies environmental science to medical humanities cybernetics to art science the collection interrogates how interdisciplinarity has come to be seen as a solution not only to enhancing relations between science and society but the pursuit of accountability and the need to foster innovation Interdisciplinarity is essential reading for scholars students and policy makers across the social sciences arts and humanities including anthropology geography sociology science and technology studies and cultural studies as well as all those engaged in interdisciplinary research It will have particular relevance for those concerned with the knowledge economy science policy environmental politics applied anthropology ELSI research medical humanities and art science Art, Anthropology, and Contested Heritage Arnd Schneider, 2019-11-14 This book presents innovative ethnographic perspectives on the intersections between art anthropology and contested cultural heritage drawing on research from the interdisciplinary TRACES project funded by the EU's Horizon 2020 program The case studies in this volume critically assess how and in which arrangements artistic aesthetic methods and creative everyday practices contribute to strengthening communities both culturally and economically. They also explore the extent to which these methods emphasize minority voices and ultimately set in motion a process of reflexive Europeanisation from below which unfolds within Europe and beyond its borders. At the heart of the book is the development of a new way of transmitting contentious cultural heritage which responds to the present situation in Europe of unstable political conditions and a sense of Europe in crisis. With chapters looking at difficult art exhibitions on colonialism, death masks, Holocaust memorials and skull collections, the contributors articulate a response to the crisis in current economic and political conditions in Europe and advances brand new theoretical groundwork on the configuration of a renewed European identity.

The Ethics of Knowledge Creation Lisette Josephides, Anne Sigfrid Grønseth, 2017-06-01 Anthropology lies at the heart of the human sciences, tackling questions having to do with the foundations, ethics and deployment of the knowledge crucial to human lives. The Ethics of Knowledge Creation focuses on how knowledge is relationally created, how local knowledge can be transmuted into universal knowledge, and how the transaction and consumption of knowledge also monitors its subsequent production. This volume examines the ethical implications of various kinds of relations that are created in the process of transacting knowledge and investigates how these transactions are also situated according to broader contradictions or synergies between ethical, epistemological and political concerns.

Redescribing Relations Ashley Lebner, 2017-05-01 Marilyn Strathern is among the most creative and celebrated contemporary anthropologists, and her work draws interest from across the humanities and social sciences. Redescribing Relations brings some of Strathern's most committed and renowned readers into conversation in her honour, especially on themes she has rarely engaged. The volume not only deepens our understanding of Strathern's work, it also offers models of how to extend her relational insights to new terrains. With a comprehensive introduction, a complete list of Strathern's publications, and a historic interview published in English for the first time, this is an invaluable resource for Strathern's old and new interlocutors alike.

Anthropology and Science Jeanette Edwards, Penny Harvey, Peter Wade, 2020-10-26 What does it mean to know something scientifically, anthropologically, socially? What is the relationship between different forms of knowledge and ways of knowing? How is knowledge mobilised in society and to what ends? Drawing on ethnographic examples from across the world and from the virtual and global places created by new information technologies, Anthropology and Science presents examples of living and dynamic epistemologies and practices, and of how scientific ways of knowing operate in the world. Authors address the nature of both scientific and experiential knowledge and look at competing and alternative ideas about what it means to be human. The essays analyze the politics and ethics of positioning science, culture or society as authoritative. They explore how certain modes of knowing are made authoritative and command allegiance or not, and look at scientific and other rationalities, whether these challenge or are compatible with science.
