Communicating Public Health Information Effectively:

Communicating Public Health Information Effectively David E. Nelson (M.D.), 2002 As the first of its kind this book provides a comprehensive approach to help public health practitioners in both the public and private sector to improve their ability to communicate with different audiences From the news media to legislators and from visual communication to electronic communication every chapter provides practical With real world recommendations and examples on how to communicate public health information to nonscientific audiences more effectively The knowledge and skills gleaned from this book will assist with planning and executing simple and complex communication activities commonly done by public health practitioners In order to compete in this increasingly competitive and complex environment those of us in public health must make the science and art of communication as integral a part of our everyday activities as the science of epidemiology and disease control

Public Health Communication Parvanta, David E. Nelson, Richard N. Harner, 2017-03-21 Introduction to public health communication Claudia Parvanta Population health a primer Patrick L Remington A public health communication planning framework Claudia Parvanta How to communicate about data David E Nelson Understanding and reporting the science David E Nelson Communicating for policy and advocacy Claudia Parvanta Health literacy and clear health communication Erika M Hedden Behavior change communication theories models and practice strategies Claudia Parvanta Formative research Claudia Parvanta Media vehicles platforms and channels Claudia Parvanta Implementating a communication intervention Claudia Parvanta Evaluating a health communication program May Grabbe Kennedy and Jonathan DeShazo Clinician client communication Richard N Harner The role of communication in cancer prevention and care Wen ying Sylvia Chou Danielle Blanch Hartigan Chan Le Thai Crisis and emergency risk communication a primer David W Cragin and Claudia Parvanta Health communication in resource poor countries Carmen Cronin and Suruchi Sood Making Data Talk David E Nelson, Bradford W Hesse, Robert T Croyle, 2009-05-20 The demand for health information continues to increase but the ability of health professionals to provide it clearly remains variable The aim of this book is 1 to summarize and synthesize research on the selection and presentation of data pertinent to public health and 2 to provide practical suggestions based on this research summary and synthesis on how scientists and other public health practitioners can better communicate data to the public policy makers and the press in typical real world situations Because communication is complex and no one approach works for all audiences the authors emphasize how to communicate data better and in some instances contrast this with how to communicate data worse rather than attempting a cookbook approach The book contains a wealth of case studies and other examples to illustrate major points and actual situations whenever possible Key principles and recommendations are summarized at the end of each chapter This book will stimulate interest among public health practitioners scholars and students to more seriously consider ways they can understand and improve communication about data and other types of scientific information with the public policy makers and the press Improved data communication will increase the chances that evidence based scientific findings can play a greater role in improving the public s health
