All rights reserved Women and Men Communicating Laurie P. Arliss, Deborah Borisoff, 2001 Women and Media Cynthia M. Lont, 1995 This text examines women's roles and impact in newspapers, women's magazines, advertising, television, entertainment, television news, film, rock music, and music television. Each unit opens with a brief discussion of the history, portrayal, and employment of women in a specific medium, followed by three essays: a content analysis that quantifies the role of women in that medium, a descriptive history of a specific woman or women's media group that has affected the medium, and a critical essay that challenges readers to think about women and media in new and different ways. The text intertwines various perspectives throughout its chapters: women as news, women as newsmakers, and the portrayal of women to give an integrative approach to the study of women and media. Women's Studies in Communication, 1993 Women Communicating Barbara Bate, Anita Taylor, 1988 This book provides original inquiries into the communication of women with other women, a type of research striking in its absence from the hundreds of other recent studies of gender and communication. It fills the void within communication research and provides a variety of qualitative studies focusing on the actual communication behavior of women. Issues in New Information Technology Benjamin M. Compaine, 1988

Talking American Donald Carbaugh, 1988 This study explores cultural features in communication and examines language in use by studying the talk within a prominent cultural event, the DONAHUE show. First, the study provides a detailed reading of America today, showing the importance of the individual in American society, the prominence of choice, and the role of the self as an antagonist to traditional social roles and the institutions of society more generally. Similarly, the study explores common ways of speaking, such as being honest about who one is, sharing one's thoughts and feelings, and really communicating with others. By unraveling how these words give shape to American means and meanings, the study demonstrates how routine communication creates powerful motives in contemporary American life. Second, the study provides a way of seeing and hearing ordinary communication as a resource to develop a cultural perspective on ordinary communicative action. An Open Approach to Information Policy Making Robert Jacobson, 1989 Open planning introduces citizens to the institutions that make policy as one way of bolstering democratic technological decision making. Specifically, the book explores the application of open planning to the policies that direct and design the operation of technology-based information systems. The use of these systems so far has produced a dangerous dichotomy between those who are part of the knowledge elite and those who merely accommodate themselves to technological change. The Voice of America Laurien Alexandre, 1988 Cableviewing Carrie Heeter, Bradley S. Greenberg, 1988 This unique volume examines the process of cableviewing, the nature of cableviewers, and especially the viewing choice process. The concept of viewing style is introduced, and individual differences in viewing style are examined. The research presented here represents the change from media effects studies to studies of users and user behavior. A London Bibliography of the Social Sciences, 1931 Vols 1-4 include material to June 1, 1929.
