Community And Consensus In Islam:

Community and Consensus in Islam Farzana Shaikh, 1989-08-25 Community and Consensus in Islam first published in 1989 represented a bold attempt to introduce the role of ideas in the interpretation of Indo Muslim politics between 1860 and the Partition of India in 1947 It questioned the widely held view at the time that Indian Muslim politics of the period could be explained by reference to pragmatic interests alone Instead Farzana Shaikh argued that the influence of ideas rooted in Islamic tradition must form a crucial dimension of any wellgrounded explanation of the determinants of Indo Muslim political practice In this masterful study the configurations of colonial politics in India are set against the backdrop of tensions between two contrasting intellectual traditions the Islamic and the liberal democratic to show how their different assumptions about the proper ends of political action sharpened the opposition between diverse constitutional positions that led to Partition Today it stands as a vital contribution to the debate about this momentous event Community and

Consensus in Islam ,1991 Islam and Mammon Timur Kuran, 2010-12-16 The doctrine of Islamic economics entered debates over the social role of Islam in the mid twentieth century Since then it has pursued the goal of restructuring economies according to perceived Islamic teachings Beyond its most visible practical achievement the establishment of Islamic banks meant to avoid interest it has promoted Islamic norms of economic behavior and founded redistribution systems modeled after early Islamic fiscal practices In this bold and timely critique Timur Kuran argues that the doctrine of Islamic economics is simplistic incoherent and largely irrelevant to present economic challenges Observing that few Muslims take it seriously he also finds that its practical applications have had no discernible effects on efficiency growth or poverty reduction Why then has Islamic economics enjoyed any appeal at all Kuran s answer is that the real purpose of Islamic economics has not been economic improvement but cultivation of a distinct Islamic identity to resist cultural globalization The Islamic subeconomies that have sprung up across the Islamic world are commonly viewed as manifestations of Islamic economics In reality Kuran demonstrates they emerged to meet the economic aspirations of socially marginalized groups The Islamic enterprises that form these subeconomies provide advancement opportunities to the disadvantaged By enhancing interpersonal trust they also facilitate intragroup transactions These findings raise the question of whether there exist links between Islam and economic performance Exploring these links in relation to the long unsettled question of why the Islamic world became underdeveloped Kuran identifies several pertinent social mechanisms some beneficial to economic development others harmful
