Community Seeking Safety In An Insecure World:

Community Zygmunt Bauman,2004      Community Zygmunt Bauman,2001-02-08 Community is one of those words that feels good it is good to have a community to be in a community And community feels good because of the meanings which the word conveys all of them promising pleasures and more often than not the kind of pleasures which we would like to experience but seem to miss Community conveys the image of a warm and comfortable place like a fireplace at which we warm our hands on a frosty day Out there in the street all sorts of dangers lie in ambush in here in the community we can relax and feel safe Community stands for the kind of world which we long to inhabit but which is not regrettably available to us Today community is another name for paradise lost but for a paradise which we still hope to find as we feverishly search for the roads that may lead us there But there is a price to be paid for the privilege of being in a community Community promises security but seems to deprive us of freedom of the right to be ourselves Security and freedom are two equally precious and coveted values which could be balanced to some degree but hardly ever fully reconciled The tension between security and freedom and between community and individuality is unlikely ever to be resolved We cannot escape the dilemma but we can take stock of the opportunities and the dangers and at least try to avoid repeating past errors In this important new book Zygmunt Bauman takes stock of these opportunities and dangers and in his distinctive and brilliant fashion offers a much needed reappraisal of a concept that has become central to current debates about the nature and future of our societies

A Victim Community Nicola O'Leary, 2021-12-13 Although historically ignored crime victims are now very firmly on the map For politicians newspapers the media and the public at large criminal injury and loss are a source of constant concern and anxiety Criminologists and media analysts have studied much of this concern in recent years but what has not been investigated is how communities experience high profile crimes and the media intrusion that inevitably follows This book seeks to address this gap by exploring how the communities of Soham and Dunblane that witnessed high profile crimes lived with the tragic events at the time and the attention of the world's media afterwards Based on a two year qualitative study of these communities this book looks beneath the surface of the relationships dilemmas and unexpected triumphs of communities struggling to come to terms with the most harrowing of events within the glare of the media spotlight Combining empirical observations with media analysis and social theory this book offers something new to the criminological audience the concept of the victim community

Robert JC Young      Everyday Community Practice Amanda Howard, Margot Rawsthorne, 2025-09-30 This book provides a practical but sophisticated exploration of community development practice and is an accessible relevant and contextualised guide for those studying social work and human services in Australia This fully revised and expanded second edition including new insights from communities preparing for responding to and recovering from disasters draws on the experiences of not only the authors but many current practitioners from diverse backgrounds working alongside communities to support socially just change The perspectives of these practitioners are drawn on throughout the book as well as in the exemplary projects case studies at the end of the book Blending practical skills and ideas with a solid theoretical foundation each chapter includes reflective questions and examples which can be used both in the classroom and in the field Enabling students to feel better supported in challenging dominant individualised practice frameworks it argues strongly that only collective action supported by community development practice can address significant social challenges such as those created by climate change poverty and social exclusion      Community Music Therapy Mercedes Pavlicevic, Gary Ansdell, 2004 Community Music Therapy presents a new way of considering music therapy in more culturally socially and politically sensitive ways It suggests new practices and new thinking for music therapy in the 21st century and offers a critique of some older methods      Gender and Nationalism in Serbi Juliane M., 2011-05-26 Master s Thesis from the year 2010 in the subject Politics International Politics Region South East Europe Balkans grade 1 5 University of Bologna and University of Sarajevo language English abstract Reproductive and labour rights of women are of interest because they are mutually linked and reinforcing Firstly it is through reproduction policies and rhetoric that women are limited to their role in preserving the continuance of the nation In turn this serves the benefit of the demographic policies of ethnocracies It is important to note that it is through these policies that hierarchical and patriarchal structures are reinforced As a logical consequence this is supposed to have an impact on the enjoyment of women s labour rights because following this argumentation it is not in the interest of ethnocracies to involve women equally to men into paid labour but rather to reinforce their primary task of reproduction by discriminating them through certain policies related to the labour market This is why the aim of this research is to analyse how these specific politics and policies related to reproduction and labour have affected the enjoyment of certain women s human rights Therefore I will first review certain policies and politics of religious and nationalistic leaders to point out what initiatives they have undertaken in regards to women s reproductive rights Moreover the thesis will elaborate the enjoyment of women s social economic rights and cultural rights such as labour rights art 6 CESC and the right to family life art 10 CESC that are set in the International Covenant of Economic Social and Cultural Rights from 1966 Thus it will be of interest to see how women s participation in the labour market has developed within the framework of changing political ideology and whether we can see significant developments not only for the question of whether women are being employed but also about which types of labour women are      Gender and

Nationalism in Serbia: The impact of political ideology on women's human rights Juliane M., 2011-05-23 Master's Thesis from the year 2010 in the subject Politics Region Southeastern Europe grade 1.5 University of Bologna and University of Sarajevo language English abstract Reproductive and labour rights of women are of interest because they are mutually linked and reinforcing Firstly it is through reproduction policies and rhetoric that women are limited to their role in preserving the continuance of the nation In turn this serves the benefit of the demographic policies of ethnocracies It is important to note that it is through these policies that hierarchical and patriarchal structures are reinforced As a logical consequence this is supposed to have an impact on the enjoyment of women's labour rights because following this argumentation it is not in the interest of ethnocracies to involve women equally to men into paid labour but rather to reinforce their primary task of reproduction by discriminating them through certain policies related to the labour market This is why the aim of this research is to analyse how these specific politics and policies related to reproduction and labour have affected the enjoyment of certain women's human rights Therefore I will first review certain policies and politics of religious and nationalistic leaders to point out what initiatives they have undertaken in regards to women's reproductive rights Moreover the thesis will elaborate the enjoyment of women's social economic rights and cultural rights such as labour rights art 6 CESC and the right to family life art 10 CESC that are set in the International Covenant of Economic Social and Cultural Rights from 1966 Thus it will be of interest to see how women's participation in the labour market has developed within the framework of changing political ideology and whether we can see significant developments not only for the question of whether women are being employed but also about which types of labour women are carrying out

White Identities Simon Clarke, Steve Garner, 2010-02-15 The study of white ethnicities is becoming increasingly important in the social sciences This book provides a critical introduction to the topic Whiteness has traditionally been seen as ethnically transparent the marker against which other ethnicities are measured This analysis is clearly incorrect but only recently have many race and ethnicity scholars moved away from focusing on ethnic minorities and instead oriented their studies around the construction of white identities Simon Clarke and Steve Garner's book is designed to guide students as they explore how white identities are forged using both sociological and psycho-social ideas Including an excellent survey of the existing literature and original research from the UK this book will be an invaluable guide for sociology students taking modules in race and ethnicity

Flexible Childhood? Helmut Wintersberger, Helga Zeiher, 2007 Children's spaces are widening culturally and socially. Socially, children's spaces are more often multilocal. Culturally, they are enlarged through mobility in the globalized and virtual spaces in the media saturated world. Children's times are also less confined by strict borderlines. The more flexible and individualized use of time in the world of work impacts on children's lives in families, day care and school. The chapters of this volume each present particular temporal and spatial aspects of social change in childhood. The book is directed toward considering the impact of such change on children's welfare. As former boundaries between generations begin to blur and neo liberal forces enter all realms of people's lives, it can no longer be taken for granted as it was in former periods of modernity that continued efforts to realize the childhood project will automatically guarantee the best interest of the child. With respect to children's welfare in time and space, Flexible Childhood discusses tensions between demands from the market economy, dynamics of rationalization and technology, and visions of a good childhood. Together with the above companion volume Childhood, Generational Order and the Welfare State, also by the University Press of Southern Denmark, this book is the final result of COST Action A19 Children's Welfare, which has been supported by the European COST Framework. IBSS: Sociology: 2009 Vol. 59 Compiled by the British Library of Politics, 2010-11. First published in 2010. Routledge is an imprint of Taylor & Francis, an informa company. Archives européennes de sociologie, 2003. Sociology of Ageing Gavin J. Andrews, Ajaya Kumar Sahoo, Sebastian Irudaya Rajan, 2009. Over the past thirty years, the sociological study of ageing has progressed from being a narrowly focused, modestly sized, problem orientated sub field of disciplinary inquiry to its current status as a distinct, extremely wide ranging endeavor that deals with many aspects of older people's economic, social and cultural lives. This volume brings together a broad range of theoretical essays and specific case studies by eminent scholars in the field. Sociology of Ageing: A Reader will be a useful resource for not only sociology students and professional sociologists but also for those based in social anthropology, psychology, geography, population studies, politics and cultural studies. Surveillance After September 11 David Lyon, 2003-10-03. Prominent among the quests for post 9/11 security are developments in surveillance. This book assesses post 9/11 surveillance trends, showing how existing surveillance activities have been extended and that some qualitative changes in the security climate are taking place.
