Snyder,1991 Advances in Command, Control & Communication Systems Christopher John Harris,I. White,1987 This book describes some of the developments in Command Control and Communication C3 systems The topics cover the design of large real time man machine systems which are now a vital area of intensive scientific and financial investment C3 systems are for complex resource management and planning and although this has a predominantly military connotation similar systems are now developing in civil sector applications public utilities and banking Topics discussed include the design and structure of C3 systems databases standards the man machine interface and advanced processing including the sensor data fusion and artificial intelligence It is the multifaceted nature of C3 that this book seeks to capture The subject is too vast to survey comprehensively but this text offers the reader an important insight into this critically important aspect of modern technology Signal ,1993 The World Wide Military Command and Control System evolution and effectiveness David Eric Pearson,2000 Perhaps the best single way to summarize it is to view the book as a bureaucratic or organizational history What the author does is to take three distinct historical themes organization technology and ideology and examine how each contributed to the development of WWMCCS and its ability and frequent inability to satisfy the demands of national leadership Whereas earlier works were primarily descriptive cataloguing the command and control assets then in place or under development The book offers more analysis by focusing on the issue of how and why WWMCCS developed the way it did While at first glance less provocative this approach is potentially more useful for defense decision makers dealing with complex human and technological systems in the post cold war era It also makes for a better story and I trust a more interesting read By necessity this work is selective The elements of WWMCCS are so numerous and the parameters of the system potentially so expansive that a full treatment is impossible within the compass of a single volume Indeed a full treatment of even a single WWMCCS asset or subsystem the Defense Satellite Communications System Extremely Low Frequency Communications the National Military Command System to name but a few could itself constitute a substantial work In its broadest conceptualization WWMCCS is the world and my approach has been to deal with the head of the octopus rather than its myriad tentacles   Planning and Architectural Design of Modern Command Control Communications and Information Systems A. Nejat Ince,Cem Evrendilek,Dag Wilhelmsen,Fadil Gezer,2012-12-06 The subject of this book is Command Control Communication and Information 3 C I which is the management infrastructure for any large or complex dynamic resource systems Here command means the determination of what to do and control means the ongoing managementofthe execution ofa command 3 Decision making is the essence of C I which is accomplished through a phased implementation of a set of facilities communications personnel equipment and procedures for monitoring forecasting planning directing allocating resources and generating options to achieve specific and general objectives 3 The C I system that is in question here is for a strategic military command including its subordinate commands Although the design methodology that will be expounded in the book is for a military system it can to a large extent apply also to tactical military as well as to civilian management information systems MIS 3 A C I system is a decision making network that reflects a hierarchical organization 3 of C I nodes Each node is responsible for the management of some portion ofthe available resources where the higher level nodes are responsible for a 3 correspondingly greater portion of the resources Within a C I system both command and control decision making occur at every level of the hierarchy Command decisions at one level determine how to satisfy the management decisions at a higher level
