

Introduction: Cultural Literacy and Creativity

Abstract The introductory chapter explains the core concepts of the book: Cultural literacy and creativity. Cultural literacy is defined as a social practice that is inherently dialogic and based on learning and gaining knowledge through emphatic, tolerant, and inclusive interaction. Creativity is seen as stimulating cultural literacy learning through openness and curiosity to test and develop something new or imaginative. The chapter introduces the Cultural Literacy Learning Programme (CLLP) and the research data: 1906 works created by 5–15-year-old children and young people who participated in the program in 2019 and 2020 in Cyprus, Germany, Israel, Lithuania, Spain, Portugal, and the UK. The authors discuss how the data is explored through data-driven content analysis and self-reflexive and collaborative interpretation.

Cross-Cultural Psychology Prof. Dr. Bilal Semih Bozdemir, To begin with it is essential to define migration and acculturation Migration refers to the movement of individuals from one geographical location to another often for reasons such as economic opportunity political instability or familial connections Acculturation on the other hand is the process through which individuals adopt adapt to or integrate aspects of a new culture This transformation may include changes in language social behaviors belief systems and daily routines The acculturation process can be both voluntary and involuntary and the degree to which individuals immerse themselves in the new culture can vary widely One of the primary challenges faced by migrants is the stress associated with the transition from one cultural framework to another This transition can manifest in various ways leading to a phenomenon often referred to as culture shock Culture shock encompasses feelings of disorientation anxiety and frustration stemming from the differences between one's original and new cultural settings Symptoms may include social isolation language barriers and difficulty accessing social support networks Such stressors can contribute to an increased risk of mental health disorders including anxiety and depression particularly in the initial stages following migration
