Communicational Structure Analysis Of A Psychotherapy Transaction:

Communicational Structure; Analysis of a Psychotherapy Transaction Albert E. Scheflen, 1973 The Relationship of Verbal and Nonverbal Communication Mary R. Key, 2011-08-02 No detailed description available for The Relationship of Verbal and Nonverbal Communication The Human Figure on Film Seth Barry Watter, 2023-10-01 The Human Figure on Film asks what it is we look for when we look at human beings projected on a screen. People have appeared onscreen since film was invented. Nothing could be more common and yet nothing confounds us more than a filmed human being. Scholars and critics have attempted to reduce the mystery creating methodologies that make this figure legible. Some of their efforts form the subject of this book. Each chapter is devoted to a single central concept: the natural, the pictorial, the institutional, and the fictional that viewers have used to make sense of what they see. Each concept in turn is tied to the work and methods of a particular kind of historical observer: the natural historian Ray L. Birdwhistell, the aesthete or pictorialist Victor O. Freeburg, the anthropologist of institutions Hortense Powdermaker, and the critic of fiction V. F. Perkins. All of these researchers have their own interests and criteria of understanding ranging from a microscopic look at gestures to a broad view of characters. Using a combination of critical history, biography, and formal analysis, The Human Figure on Film offers a fresh approach to the problem of figuration in an age of digital cinema. It is at once a cross section of the field of film studies, a handbook of methods, and an inquiry into the nature of inquiry itself.

On Moving and Being Moved Frances La Barre, 2013-05-13 Every sensitive therapist intuitively feels the wealth of meaning that resides in nonverbal behavior. Yet trained as they are to discern and communicate verbal insights, few therapists have a clear idea of how to tap that stream of meaning. In On Moving and Being Moved, Frances La Barre remedies this situation in an intellectually broadening and clinically exciting manner. Drawing on an extensive research literature on movement and nonverbal behavior, her background as a dancer, and her extensive analytic experience, she seeks to enhance our perception of movement and our understanding of its role in therapeutic communication. La Barre anchors her contribution in a thoroughgoing review of both analytic and nonanalytic sources as they bear on clinical issues. Conversant with the language of posture, gesture, mergers of kinesics and context analysis, and of body attitudes and self-directed touching, she spans the research literatures of all relevant disciplines from anthropology to developmental psychology to ethology, from studies of temperament to cross-cultural comparisons of interactive rhythms. Turning to the psychoanalytic domain, she begins by considering the traditionally peripheral role of the body that derived from Freud's own belief that action was often an obstacle to verbal understanding. With the advent of the contemporary relational perspective, she holds the stage is set for a deeper understanding of nonverbal behavior both as a source of meaning and as a ubiquitous shaper of therapeutic communication. For the clinician, On Moving and Being Moved is a wonderfully informative introduction to the realm of the nonverbal that succeeds both as a reference work and as a pivotal contribution to the theory of therapy. La Barre goes on to illuminate the manner in which analytic and nonanalytic insights can be integrated into a flexible yet
