WARNER

If students did Level 2 together, this activity gets them using simple English again after the break; if they didn't, it helps them get to know each other.

Write the words food, sport, city, animal and colour on the board. Give students one minute to write down their favourite thing in each category. Start by giving them an example for each, e.g. ice cream, basketball, Milan, elephant and green.

In pairs, students then compare and discuss their answers. Demonstrate with a stronger student:

'What's your favourite food, Mario?'

'I love sushi. There's a great sushi place near my house. What about you?'

As a variation, all students should walk around the class asking and comparing answers to see which items in each category are the most popular.

ABOUT YOU

Pre-teach award (a prize you give to someone for something good they did), then ask students for examples of awards or prizes it is possible for young people to win, for example in sports competitions, youth movements or school exams. Put students into groups to discuss the questions. Encourage students to brainstorm other awards and prizes in their country. (If you have students from different countries, the discussion is more interesting if you put different nationalities together.) Then exchange ideas as a class. As an extension activity, put students into pairs to think of funny awards for their class for this year: for example, for the student who smiles the most, the student who asks the most questions.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

The Duke of Edinburgh's Award is a registered charity which aims to develop young people's social and physical skills so that they can make a fuller contribution to adult life, for example by finding a better job. Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, founded the Duke of Edinburgh's Award in the UK in 1955. Now each year around 300,000 young people in about 145 countries take the award. A number of different organisations run the Duke of Edinburgh's Award and these include schools, colleges, youth centres and businesses. Around 50,000 volunteers act as leaders and trainers. The minimum time to complete the programme is two years (it must be finished before you are 25) and there are three levels, Bronze, Silver and Gold, which increase in the level of challenge and commitment. The Gold level has an extra residential requirement where participants have to do an activity away from home for five days.

- Ask students to look at the poster and the heading. Ask, 'Who is the Duke of Edinburgh?' (Prince Philip, husband of the queen of England, Elizabeth II). Pre-teach volunteering (offering to do something without expecting payment), expedition (an organised journey, especially a long one for a particular purpose) and hiking (the activity of going for a long walk for pleasure outdoors). Point out the pronunciation of Edinburgh (/ˈɛd.ɪn.bə.ɹə/). If necessary, read out the background information to help students. Ask, 'Who is Mr Jones?' (the school's Duke of Edinburgh's Award leader). Put students into pairs to read and answer the questions; then check the answers as a class.

Answers

- It's an achievement award.
- They volunteer, do fitness activities or exercise, learn something new and go on an expedition.
- and 4 Students' own answers

FAST FINISHERS

Tell fast finishers to write down three skills which they have, for example, I can play the piano, I can cook quite well, I am learning to drive. Then tell fast finishers to work in pairs, compare their skills and ask one another questions about them, for example, Can you make sushi?
