A Practical Guide to Recovery-Oriented Practice: Tools for Transforming Mental Health Care Program on Recovery and Community Health Larry Davidson Director, Institute for Social and Policy Studies Yale University, Department of Psychiatry Yale University Michael Rowe Associate Clinical Professor of Sociology, Janis Tondora Assistant Clinical Professor of Psychiatry Yale University School of Medicine, Department of Psychiatry Yale University School of Medicine Maria J. O'Connell Associate Research Scientist, Yale Program on Recovery and Community Health Yale University School of Medicine Martha Staeheli Lawless Project Director, 2008-08-27 This book takes a lofty vision of recovery and of a life in the community for every adult with a serious mental illness promised by the U S President s 2003 New Freedom Commission on Mental Health and shows the reader what is entailed in making this vision a reality Beginning with the historical context of the recovery movement and its recent emergence on the center stage of mental health policy around the world the authors then clarify various definitions of mental health recovery and address the most common misconceptions of recovery held by skeptical practitioners and worried families. With this framework in place, the authors suggest fundamental principles for recovery-oriented care, a set of concrete practice guidelines developed in and for the field, a recovery guide model of practice as an alternative to clinical case management, and tools to self-assess the recovery orientation of practices and practitioners. In doing so, this volume represents the first book to go beyond the rhetoric of recovery to its implementation in everyday practice. Much of this work was developed with the State of Connecticut's Department of Mental Health and Addiction Services, helping the state to win a 1 ranking in the recent NAMI report card on state mental health authorities. Since initial development of these principles, guidelines, and tools in Connecticut, the authors have become increasingly involved in refining and tailoring this approach for other systems of care around the globe, as more and more governments, ministry leaders, system managers, practitioners, and people with serious mental illnesses and their families embrace the need to transform mental health services to promote recovery and community inclusion. If you've wondered what all of the recent talk has been about with the notion of recovery in mental health, this book explains it. In addition, it gives you an insider's view of the challenges and strategies involved in transforming to recovery and a road map to follow on the first few steps down this exciting, promising, and perhaps long overdue path.

Community-Based Psychological First Aid Gerard A. Jacobs, 2016-06-07. Community-Based Psychological First Aid: A Practical Guide to Helping Individuals and Communities during Difficult Times presents a practical method for helping those in need in difficult times. No advanced training in psychology is needed to use it. Injuries from disasters, terrorist events, and civil unrest are not just physical. These events also cause psychological trauma that can do lasting damage. Psychological First Aid (PFA) draws on human resilience and aims to reduce stress systems and help those affected recover. It is not professional psychotherapy, and those providing this kind of aid do not need a degree to help. Gerard Jacobs has developed this community-based method of delivering PFA over 20 years and has taught it in over 30 countries. Along with the easy-to-follow method, Jacobs includes examples of how this works in action in different situations and presents scenarios to practice. Unique in its approach of community engagement to train community members to help each other, this guide is an excellent resource for local emergency managers to engage in whole community emergency management. Presents a proven method for helping to alleviate the mental health effects of disasters, terrorist attacks, civil unrest, and other community stressors. Offers a community-based model developed and taught by an international expert for over 20 years, requiring no advanced training or education in psychology to use. Provides techniques that are adaptable to individual communities or cultures. Outlines practices for self-care while helping others to prevent burnout. Includes case studies, scenarios, and key terms to help facilitate community training.

Fit for the Community, 1993. Promoting Mental Health and Wellbeing Among Young People Maj Britt Dahl Nielsen, Susan Andersen, Sigurd Lauridsen, 2025-09-10. Mental disorders account for a large proportion of the disease burden in young people, and poor mental health is strongly related to lower educational achievements and labor market attainment and other health problems including substance abuse violence and poor reproductive and sexual health Evidence suggests that the COVID 19 pandemic might have had a negative effect on young people s mental health and knowledge about secular trends in well being and mental health problems is important for planning public health interventions Research on health promotion and preventive interventions remains scarce and the mental health needs of young people are often unmet and research is urgently needed to develop affordable and feasible interventions In Denmark and other countries the mental health of young people has been declining especially in the wake of COVID 19 The main goal of this research topic is to further our understanding of trends in mental health and well being among young people and aid the development of feasible and effective public health interventions This Research Topic welcomes empirical studies including qualitative quantitative and mixed method research design papers and systematic reviews focusing on but not limited to the following sub topics Trends in mental health and well being among young people The impact of COVID 19 on mental health and wellbeing New and emerging risks for mental health and well being for example related to online and mobile technology Barriers to treatment Development of affordable and feasible community based interventions Implementation and effectiveness of preventive and health promotion interventions including universal interventions and interventions targeting vulnerable groups
