Ocupaciones y lenguaje Diversos autores, 2021-01-18 Las competencias lingüísticas en un sentido amplio han ido adquiriendo una creciente relevancia en los procesos productivos del capitalismo informacional. El motivo está en que la creación de riqueza, la productividad y la ocupabilidad en las sociedades avanzadas dependen de la producción y gestión de información y conocimiento que se transmiten y producen a través del lenguaje. De esta forma, los procesos de globalización, tercerización e informatización de la economía conducen a que un creciente número de ocupaciones y trabajadores precisen de un mayor componente de trabajo intelectual y por tanto lingüístico. Ello se debe a que en la economía digital la información y el conocimiento son codificados, transmitidos y representados lingüísticamente. Canales de comercialización Louis W.
