Colonial Subjects Essays On The Practical History Of Anthropology:

Colonial Subjects Peter Pels, Oscar Salemink, 2000 Probes the relationship between the conditions of colonial modernization and the methods of anthropological knowledge Colonial Subjects Peter Pels, Oscar Salemink, 1999 It is often forgotten that anthropology the scientific study of cultural difference arose from situations that required a practical management of cultural differences Out of the practical contexts of colonial contact administration mission nationalism policing settler cultivation tourism warfare emerged methods and images of otherness that inform anthropological notions of cultural difference to this day The essays in this volume share the assumption that ethnography far from being the unique purview of anthropology is a broader field of practice out of which and alongside which anthropology attempted to distinguish itself as a scientific discipline They explore a variety of situations in colonial South and Southeast Asia and Africa and in the treatment of the indigenous inhabitants of North America and Australia to provide genealogies of present day anthropological practices tracing them back to the subjects of colonial ethnography This book introduces into the history of anthropology many of the insights developed in recent studies in history cultural studies and the anthropology of colonialism It can serve as a course book in the history of anthropology and the anthropology of colonialism while at the same time addressing a much larger audience of students of colonial history of the history of science and modernity and of globalization

The Ethnography of Vietnam's Central Highlanders Oscar Salemink, 2019-10-18 This book looks at ethnographic discourses concerning the indigenous population of Vietnam's Central Highlands during periods of christianization colonization war and socialist transformation and analyses these in their relation to tribal ethnic territorial governmental and gendered discourses Salemink's book is a timely contribution to anthropological knowledge as the ethnic minorities in Vietnam have again been the object of fierce academic debate This is a historically grounded post colonial critique relevant to theories of ethnicity and the history of anthropology and will be of interest to graduate students of anthropology and cultural studies as well as Vietnam studies Anthropology's Global Histories Rainer F. Buschmann, 2008-10-31

Anthropologists and world historians make strange bedfellows Although the latter frequently employ anthropological methods in their descriptions of cross cultural exchanges the former have raised substantial reservations about global approaches to history Fearing loss of specificity anthropologists object to the effacing qualities of techniques employed by world historians this despite the fact that anthropology itself was a global comparative enterprise in the nineteenth century Rainer Buschmann here seeks to recover some of anthropology's global flavor by viewing its history in Oceania through the notion of the ethnographic frontier the furthestmost limits of the anthropologically known regions of the Pacific The colony of German New Guinea 1884 1914 presents an ideal example of just such a contact zone Colonial administrators there were drawn to approaches partially inspired by anthropology Anthropologists and museum officials exploited this interest by preparing large scale expeditions to German New Guinea Buschmann explores the resulting interactions between German colonial officials resident ethnographic collectors and indigenous peoples arguing that all were instrumental in the formation of anthropological theory He shows how changes in collecting aims and methods helped shift ethnographic study away from its focus on material artifacts to a broader consideration of indigenous culture He also shows how ethnological collecting often a competitive affair could become politicized and connect to national concerns Finally he places the German experience in the broader context of Euro American anthropology Anthropology s Global Histories will interest students and scholars of anthropology history world history and Pacific studies Writing, Travel and Empire Peter Hulme, Russell

McDougall, 2007-08-29 The British Empire drew on the talents of many remarkable figures whose lives reveal a wonderfully rich involvement with the crucial issues of the period In many cases they left a legacy of travel writing novels biography and ethnography which made important contributions to our knowledge of other cultures Writing Travel and Empire explores the lives and writings of eight such figures including Sir George Grey Gertrude Bell Sir Hugh Clifford and Roger Casement All travelled the Empire from Grey the renowned colonial governor who undertook dangerous journeys to the interior of Australia to Tom Harrisson the emaciated polymath war hero and Arctic explorer whose time in the New Hebrides embraced both cannibalistic rituals and a meeting with film legend Douglas Fairbanks Sr who sought Harrisson out for a Hollywood feature about savage life All saw themselves as writers despite their very different approaches and interests and each was writing against a backdrop of the impending disappearance of indigenous cultures around the world Writing from the margins of what was shortly to become the more formalised discipline of anthropology their work yields interesting insights into both the issues of empire and the ways in which academic disciplines define the boundaries of their subject Embracing themes such as gender and travel racial science the globalisation of native management and the internal colonies and with a geographical coverage that extends from South America to Russia via Africa and the South Seas Writing Travel and Empire will engage all those with an interest in cultural geography anthropology history postcolonial studies biography and travel writing Magic and Modernity Birgit Meyer, Peter Pels, 2003 This is the first book to explore comparatively how magic usually portrayed as the antithesis of the modern is also at home in modernity New History of Anthropology Henrika Kuklick, 2008 This edited work re examines the history of anthropology through the lens of the new globalised world It provides a comprehensive history of the discipline from its prehistory in the age of exploration through to anthropology s current condition and its relationship with other disciplines Soziale Ästhetik, Atmosphäre, Medialität Philipp

Zehmisch, Ursula Münster, Jens Zickgraf, Claudia Lang, 2018 Journal of Palestine Studies, 2004 Africanizing Anthropology Lyn Schumaker, 2001-07-12 An innovative cultural study of a major site of British anthropology done with methods from the history of science detailing the development of methods practices and work culture in the colonial context

Ethnographic Empire Daniel Pei Siong Goh, 2005 Using the categories of the Savage Medieval and Oriental in precolonial travel literature and framed by manifest destiny beliefs pioneer colonial officials developed ethnographic representations to transcribe native resistance into comparable representations of racial difference Pioneer ethnography then influenced the representations of official ethnographic units of the colonial state creating ambivalent representations that became contested by colonialist political factions On the Margins of Asia Charles F.
