Combating Proliferation of Weapons of Mass Destruction, Annex, 1999      Combating Proliferation Jason D. Ellis, Geoffrey D. Kiefer, 2007-02-23 Selected by Choice Magazine as an Outstanding Academic Title The intelligence community's flawed assessment of Iraq's weapons systems and the Bush administration's decision to go to war in part based on those assessments illustrates the political and policy challenges of combating the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction In this comprehensive assessment defense policy specialists Jason Ellis and Geoffrey Kiefer find disturbing trends in both the collection and analysis of intelligence and in its use in the development and implementation of security policy Analyzing a broad range of recent case studies Pakistan's development of nuclear weapons North Korea's defiance of U N watchdogs Russia's transfer of nuclear and missile technology to Iran and China's to Pakistan the Soviet biological warfare program weapons inspections in Iraq and others the authors find that intelligence collection and analysis relating to WMD proliferation are becoming more difficult that policy toward rogue states and regional allies requires difficult tradeoffs and that using military action to fight nuclear proliferation presents intractable operational challenges Ellis and Kiefer reveal that decisions to use or overlook intelligence are often made for starkly political reasons They document the Bush administration's policy shift from nonproliferation which emphasizes diplomatic tools such as sanctions and demarches to counterproliferation which at times employs interventionist and preemptive actions They conclude with cogent recommendations for intelligence services and policy makers      Combating Proliferation of Weapons of Mass Destruction United States. Kiefer, 2007-01-17 The intelligence community's flawed assessment of Iraq's weapons systems and the Bush administration's decision to go to war in part based on those assessments illustrates the political and policy challenges of combating the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction In this comprehensive assessment defense policy specialists Jason Ellis and Geoffrey Kiefer find disturbing trends in both the collection and analysis of intelligence and in its use in the development and implementation of security policy Analyzing a broad range of recent case studies Pakistan's development of nuclear weapons North Korea's defiance of U N watchdogs Russia's transfer of nuclear and missile technology to Iran and China's to Pakistan the Soviet biological warfare program weapons inspections in Iraq and others the authors find that intelligence collection and analysis relating to WMD proliferation are becoming more difficult that policy toward rogue states and regional allies requires difficult tradeoffs and that using military action to fight nuclear proliferation presents intractable operational challenges Ellis and Kiefer reveal that decisions to use or overlook intelligence are often made for starkly political reasons They document the Bush administration's policy shift from nonproliferation which emphasizes diplomatic tools such as sanctions and demarches to counterproliferation which at times employs interventionist and preemptive actions They conclude with cogent recommendations for intelligence services and policy makers

Global Anti-Money Laundering Regulation Nkechikwu Azinge-Egbiri, Nicholas Ryder, Ehi Eric Esoimeme, 2024-11-25 This book explores the politics of money laundering and terrorist financing ML TF regulation in several countries across Africa and the Small Island States Developed countries created the Financial Action Task Force FATF to combat ML TF globally Expectedly the FATF's standards mirror existing banking regulations within the G7 countries Yet the standards apply to all countries irrespective of the limited ML TF risks they pose to the global economy their weak pre conditions for effective regulation and their non involvement in the FATF's framing Still such countries mainly within the Global South have worked hard to amplify their compliance with the regime due to fears of the repercussions of their non compliance This collection demonstrates how the global ML TF regulation is treated as an implicitly superior legal regime where the Global South must comply irrespective of their perception of the FATF's legitimacy challenges It shows that beyond exogenous factors such as neo colonialism endogenous factors such as weak institutions and corruption undermine the compliance trajectory of the Global South Furthermore it analyses the unintended consequences of transplanting FATF standards into diverse legal and cultural contexts The volume contributes to our understanding of the challenges of transplantation from the Global North and how the Global South is steering within the constraints created by the FATF It advocates for a comprehensive understanding of the nuanced compliance challenges of developing countries It further proposes practical solutions to address them emphasizing the importance of risk based understanding accountability capacity building and coordination in achieving effective anti money laundering and counter terrorist financing measures The collection will be essential reading for researchers academics and policy makers working in financial crime regulation and international economic law
