Explaining Underdevelopment in East Africa in the Post-Independence Period Martina Petkova, 2015-07-27
Master's Thesis from the year 2014 in the subject Politics Topic Development Politics University of Birmingham language English abstract This paper explores the connections and gaps between underdevelopment the colonial legacy imported foreign practices regimes and emerging economies in order to understand more clearly how typical general discourses on development continue to carry ideologically charged and historically transposed meanings The term underdevelopment is primarily used to trace and define the retrogressive economic pattern within a given society and the corresponding postulates Underdevelopment however illustrates also how the post colonial fragility of the African economies becomes affected by internal conflicts regional disputes militarization and indoctrination of the masses Beginning with a literature review and definitions of the concept the paper seeks to investigate the multipolar problematics in Eastern Africa in the post colonial period with particular regard to the Federal Democratic Republic of Ethiopia and the Republic of Kenya These two studies aim to illustrate and contrast the contextual differences of the colonized and independent types of countries together with their common internal and regional dynamism that cause underdevelopment to be ongoing This paper then explores and analyzes the aforementioned states according to particular indicators and provides evidence in which a deconstructive comparison is used to trace periodical pre and post colonial realities and the state of affairs of the underperforming sectors Moreover it will then shed light on the continuity of underdevelopment within the context of the theorization of the given amalgam of critical factors that have been redefined over time The thesis concludes with a summary and questions the notion of unequal development on the African continent Colonialism and Underdevelopment in East Africa ; the Politics of Economic Change, 1919-1939 [By] E.A. the Military in Colonial South Asia Kaushik Roy, Gavin Rand, 2017-08-25 This book offers diverse and original perspectives on South Asia's imperial military history. Unlike prevailing studies, the chapters in the volume emphasize both the vital role of culture in framing imperial military practice and the multiple cultural effects of colonial military service and engagements. The volume spans from the early East India Company period through to the Second World War and India's independence, exploring themes such as the military in the field and at leisure as well as examining the effects of imperial deployments in South Asia and across the British Empire. Drawing extensively on new archival research, the book integrates previously disparate accounts of imperial military history and raises new questions about culture and operational practice in the colonial Indian Army. This work will be of interest to scholars and researchers of modern South Asian history, war and strategic studies, military history, the British Empire as well as politics and international relations.
