Organizational Behavior and Management John Ivancevich,Robert Konopaske,Michael Matteson,2007-02 The author team Ivancevich Konopaske Matteson has examined listened and responded to reviewers instructors and students suggestions on how to continue to make Organizational Behavior and Management 8e a more user friendly and application rich introductory OB textbook To accomplish this OBM 8e achieves the difficult goal of preserving its key strengths i e thorough current good balance of research and practice while streamlining its content by removing over 100 pages of readings that are now available on the Web This reduction in page length makes the book more affordable teachable and efficient for students Preserving scholarship while streamlining captures the spirit of what I K M used as the guiding principle while writing OBM 8e Remote Cooperation: CSCW Issues for Mobile and Teleworkers Alan J. Dix,Russell Beale,1996-10-18 We are constantly being told we are living in a shrinking world but for many the opposite seems to be the case Our work is increasingly being done out of the traditional office environment whilst traveling at clients premises or at home We are living further from where we work and we work for global organizations and our colleagues and contacts may be in different countries or different continents At the same time our lives are more and more dependent on constant access to information and one another but our connectivity whilst on the move or at home is often far less efficient than that of the fixed office How do we work cooperatively when we are so far apart Awareness in Global Virtual Teams Chyng-Yang Jang,2003 This study investigated the antecedents and impacts of awareness in global virtual teams Awareness is a broad construct that reflects the extent to which people participating in a collaborative activity possess relevant information about aspects of their teammates or teammates work The purpose of this study was to integrate the concept of awareness into the literature of work group study Specifically the effects of perceived task structure communication frequency and groupware usage on perceived awareness were examined In addition the effects of awareness along with task interdependence on trust and solution agreement were also explored Participants were recruited from universities in the United States Mexico and Russia to form 7 distributed engineering design teams Each team consisted of students from 2 locations and was offered a set of communication tools including an ISDN based video conferencing system VTEL Microsoft Netmeeting telephone fax a project specific email account and a web based groupware tool known as TeamSCOPE The results showed that perceived task interdependence and communication frequency had positive effects on perceived level of awareness Additionally the effect of communication frequency on perceived awareness was moderated by perceived task interdependence Results also showed that participants reliance on real time meetings with distant teammates for awareness was positively associated with increased perceived task interdependence and contributed to a higher level of perceived awareness However no effect of TeamSCOPE usage on perceived awareness was found Further discussion on awareness demands is provided Both perceived task interdependence and awareness were positively associated with trust Multiple regression analysis showed that perceived awareness was the more significant predictor of trust No effect was found between awareness and solution agreement These results suggest that awareness is an important group process variable It provides a link between task interdependence and trust To stay updated with their distant teammates virtual team participants need adequate media support to match their awareness demand Organizations should reduce the barriers of using synchronous communication channels for virtual teams especially for those working on high interdependent tasks Bulletin Trimestriel de L'Association Internationale Des Spécialistes de L'information Agricole ,2005 Interdisciplinary Research in Engineering: Steps towards Breakthrough Innovation for Sustainable Development Aurel Vlaicu,Stelian Brad,2013-06-27 Selected peer reviewed papers from the Interdisciplinary Research in Engineering Steps towards Breakthrough Innovation for Sustainable Development INTERIN 2013 25 February 1 March 2013 Cluj Napoca Romania Sixth IEEE Workshops on Enabling Technologies ,1997 This volume comprises papers arising from the 6th Enabling Technologies workshop WET ICE 97 The main topic is software design and development
