INTRODUCTION TO CHAT GPT FOR HIGH SCHOOL AND COLLEGE STUDENTS Student Blogs Anne Davis,Ewa McGrail,2017-01-10 How do students become successful writers and excited about writing Blogging or other online writing in your classroom can build literacies in all content areas by giving students the frequent writing practice that is missing in classrooms today Students have to write to get better at writing They need to write to an authentic audience real people who are interested in what they have to say and are willing to comment back and engage in further conversation Simply put they need practice time in interactive writing How might teachers do this This book is the answer to this question The book investigates blogs as digital spaces where students can practice writing and converse with an authentic audience. It focuses on idea development and gives students voice. Today's students already occupy or will inhabit new online spaces in the future. Schools and teachers must move forward with the students and embrace this world across the curriculum in purposeful and creative ways. This will transform schools and teacher classrooms.

Toward Authentic Audiences Michael Patrick Ayers, 2011

Though researchers have discussed adolescents' uses of social media and Web 2.0 texts outside school, little research has analyzed how such texts are used in classrooms. This study examines various perspectives on a group of high school students engaged in blogging as part of two language arts courses over an eight-month period. Research questions focused on how students conceived of and interacted with their readers; how they used structural features of the blogging platform to connect their blogs to one another; and how discourses of freedom of speech online led a few students to transgress school norms. To answer these questions, I studied examples of eighty classroom blogs from my own high school students, conducted interviews with eight students, and maintained researcher field notes. I analyzed this data using a combination of discourse analysis, multimodal analysis, while applying social network analysis to understand how the blogs were connected through the key feature known as "Following My findings suggest that the connectivity offered by Web 2.0 enabled students to reach and communicate with authentic audiences who could recognize and validate their identity performances. Further, I argue that though certain features of Web 2.0 media are incongruous with many conventional classroom norms, teachers should work to bridge those gaps.
