Howland Sanks, John Aloysius Coleman, 1993. A cultural and social analysis of several topics that characterizes American life in the late twentieth century, including racism, poverty, the family, feminism, and the environment.

Margaret Fuller's Cultural Critique Fritz Fleischmann, 2000. A century and a half after her death, Margaret Fuller is recognized as America's female intellectual prophet. Charles Capper, a thinker of stunning acumen and foresight, feminist theoretician of gender and culture, literary and social critic, foreign correspondent, teacher, writer, revolutionist. The essays in this volume discuss her seven practices of cultural critique: her feminism as a road not taken, the twentieth-century life of her ideas, and her relationships with Lydia Maria Child, Julia Ward Howe, and Nathaniel Hawthorne. They contain analyses of language, perception, and voice. Fuller's travel writing at home and abroad, and her brother Arthur's editing practices. The broad range of biographical and critical scholarship assembled in this book contributes to the growing comprehension of Fuller's pioneering life and work.

The New York Times Index, 2006     Remaking China's Public Philosophy for the Twenty-first Century Jinghao Zhou, 2003-08-30. In this book, author Jinghao Zhou uses for the first time the prism of public philosophy to examine Chinese society, modernization, globalization, and democratization as a whole. Challenging conventional thinking in China studies, he examines China systematically in seven aspects: history, ideology, economy, politics, religion, education, and China's future, and does so from both Eastern and Western perspectives. The volume asserts that the remaking of China's public philosophy is the key for the nation to achieve both economic and political prosperity, making the bold argument that this remaking can contribute profoundly not only to China's development but to international peace and development as well. In Remaking China's Public Philosophy for the Twenty-First Century, author Jinghao Zhou uses for the first time the prism of public philosophy to examine Chinese society, modernization, globalization, and democratization as a whole. Challenging conventional thinking in China studies, he examines China systematically in seven aspects: history, ideology, economy, politics, religion, education, and China's future, and does so from both Eastern and Western perspectives. The volume asserts that the remaking of China's public philosophy, the very principles and precepts it now takes for granted, is the key for the nation to achieve both economic and political prosperity Zhou aims for a peaceful revolution of China's democratization while he explores a new paradigm in China studies making the bold argument that this remaking can contribute profoundly not only to China's development but to international peace and development as well
