The Green Agenda in American Politics Robert J. Duffy,2003 Organizations such as the Sierra Club and Friends of the Earth are familiar to anyone with an interest in environmental protection As activist groups they played by the same rules for years But in 1994 the rules changed With the Republican takeover of Congress environmental groups faced sweeping changes in federal policies that threatened the enforcement of environmental laws As these organizations intensified their efforts to meet these challenges they also altered their electoral strategies and political spending patterns This book traces those actions and shows what they mean for the future of environmentalism in the political arena While environmental advocacy groups have become bigger and better funded in recent years so have the corporate interests that compete with them for the attention of public and politicians The Green Agenda in American Politics offers a new look at environmental advocacy that focuses on contemporary lobbying electioneering and agenda setting in this new context Drawing on interviews with activists from a wide range of organizations Robert Duffy describes what environmental groups actually do when lobbying officials or the public He examines activity at both national and state levels to emphasize their growing use of websites email and action alert
