Democracy And New Media Media In Transition Series:

New Media and Politics Barrie Axford, Richard Huggins, 2001-01-26 Exploring the theme of the putative transformation of political modernity under the impact of new media this book adopts a questioning approach to the ways in which cultural and technological factors are affecting the temper of political life and reflects the variety of normative thinking about and empirical research on the changing character of politics in mediatized cultures New Media and Politics examines the extent to which commercial populism now dominates electoral and other political discourses the ways in which the functions of leadership government and political parties are modified by different forms of both old and new media the democratic or undemocratic import of such changes and the ways in which the dominant territorial paradigm of politics is challenged by the space and time devouring capacities of electronic media Democracy and New Media Henry Jenkins, David Thorburn, Brad Seawell, 2004 Essays on the promise and dangers of the Internet for democracy

Information Polity, 2005 Using New Media for Citizen Engagement and Participation Adria, Marco, 2019-12-27 Recent technological advancements have made it possible to use moderated discussion threads on social media to provide citizens with a means of discussion concerning issues that involve them With the renewed interest in devising new methods for public involvement the use of such communication tools has caused some concern on how to properly apply them for strategic purposes Using New Media for Citizen Engagement and Participation provides emerging research exploring the theoretical and practical aspects of how social media should be added to public involvement activities such as citizen juries public deliberation and citizen panels Readers will be offered insights into the critical design considerations for planning carrying out and assessing public involvement initiatives Featuring coverage on a broad range of topics such as citizen journalism online activism and public discourse this book is ideally designed for corporate professionals broadcasters news writers column editors politicians policy managers government administrators academicians researchers practitioners and students in the fields of political science communications sociology mass media and broadcasting public administration and community service learning

New Media and Political Participation in Russia and Kazakhstan Yerkebulan Sairambay, 2023-11-02 New Media and Political Participation in Russia and Kazakhstan Exploring the Lived Experiences of Young People in Eurasia confronts the sociological problem of the usage of new media by young people in political participation particularly in Eurasian countries The author explains how and why new media promotes political participation among young people in Russia and Kazakhstan While there has been no shortage of analysis about the interlinkage between new media and political participation this research is different it explains the mechanisms and reasons of new media assisted political participation This book develops two models theoretical and New Media Led Political Participation that better explain how new media use translates into political participation These models are of paramount importance for the study of new media led political participation which builds in depth knowledge to the research area from a post communist perspective This book not only sheds light on the ways in which and the reasons why new media contributes to the nature of political participation but also explains why citizens use new media in their political participation The author sets his sights on what occurs downstream i e not in the minds of political leaders and or well known oppositionists but on the ground in specific contexts such as cities towns and villages by young people

Current Publications in Legal and Related Fields, 2003 Secrecy in Public Relations, Mediation and News Cultures Anne M. Cronin, 2023-01-19 This book investigates the relationship of secrecy as a social practice to contemporary media news cultures and public relations Drawing on Georg Simmel s theorisation of how secrecy produces a second world alongside the obvious world and creates and reshapes social relations Anne Cronin argues for close analysis of the PR industry as a powerful vector of secrecy and an examination of its relationship to news cultures Using case studies and in depth interviews as well as recent research in media and cultural studies sociology journalism studies and communication studies the book analyses how PR practices generate a second shadow world of the media sphere which has a profound impact on the obvious world It interrogates both the PR industry s and news culture s role in shaping social relations for a digital media landscape and those initiatives promoting transparency of data and decision making processes An insightful interdisciplinary approach to debates on media and power this book will appeal to students of public relations sociology media studies cultural studies and communication studies It will also be of interest to scholars and practitioners working at the intersections of media social relations and public trust
