Post-Soviet Affairs ,1999 Different Dynamics for Contrasting Legacies Neil Munro,2004 Sungkyun Journal of East Asian Studies ,2005 Critical Citizens Pippa Norris,1999-03-25

Critical Citizens Global Support for Democratic Government analyses a series of interrelated questions The first two are diagnostic how far are there legitimate grounds for concern about public support for democracy world wide Are trends towards growing cynicism evident in the United States evident in many established and newer democracies The second concern is analytical what are the main political economic and cultural factors driving the dynamics of support for democratic government The final questions are prescriptive what are the consequences of this analysis and what are the implications for strengthening democratic governance This book has brought together a distinguished group of international scholars who develop a global analysis of these issues that looks at trends in established and newer democracies as we approach the end of the twentieth century It also presents the first results of the 1995 7 World Values Study as well as drawing on an extensive range of comparative empirical evidence Challenging the conventional wisdom this original and stimulating book concludes that accounts of a democratic crisis are greatly exaggerated By the mid 1990s most citizens world wide shared widespread aspirations to the ideals and principles of democratic government At the same time there remains a marked gap between evaluations of the ideal and the practice of democracy The public in many newer democracies in Central and Eastern Europe and in Latin America proved deeply critical of the performance of their governing regimes And in many established democracies the 1980s saw a decline in public confidence in the core institutions of representative democracy including parliaments the legal system and political parties The book considers the causes and consequences of the development of critical citizens It will prove invaluable for those interested in comparative politics public opinion and the dynamics of the democratization process ADVANCE PRAISE The great democratic paradox of the 1990s is that it has simultaneously been the decade of democratization and the decade of growing distrust of democratic institutions This volume admirably dissects the complex and multi dimensional background of these conflicting trends and presents a judicious evaluation of the grounds of optimism and pessimism in which fortunately the former prevails AREND LIJPHART University of California San Diego Critical Citizens is the most comprehensive collection of comparative work on confidence in government and sources of public support for democracy I strongly recommend it SEYMOUR MARTIN LIPSET George Mason University Pippa Norris and her colleagues examine claims and counter claims about the erosion of public confidence in democracy describe the depth and dynamics of trust in government and lay out a broad and differentiated approach to the phenomenon They sort out the rather high degree of support for democracy from widespread uneasiness with the workings of institutions and with the behaviour of politicians Their book is must reading for survey researchers and comparative students of democracy alike SIDNEY TARROW Cornell University This is the most impressive comparative study of how citizens in contemporary democracies relate to their governments In an age of expanding democratic institutions around the globe the authors of Critical Citizens capture the reader's interest and provide a masterful update on one of the critical issues of our time CHRISTOPHER J ANDERSON Binghamton University SUNY It is the Civic Culture study 40 years later Critical Citizens is a landmark comparative study of trends in attitudes toward nation government regime political institutions and leaders in some forty regionally well distributed countries bringing together the research of a cross national team of social scientists led by Pippa Norris of the Harvard Kennedy School It is full of theoretically interesting insights as well as findings that have an important bearing on public policy GABRIEL ALMOND Stanford

Citizens in the Making in Post-Soviet States Olena Nikolayenko, 2011-03-02 This book based on extensive original research including new survey research amongst young people examines the political attitudes of Russian and Ukrainian adolescents without any firsthand experience with communism

From Politics Past to Politics Future Alan Mayne, 1999-03-30 Mayne provides an integrated analysis of contemporary and future politics and government He first examines major problems and issues occurring worldwide surveys different regimes and assesses the wide variety of active and emerging political movements Mayne then explores political paradigms and ideologies through a main political spectrum to various alternatives He outlines some possible elements for a new political paradigm that would be holistic in several different ways Finally he outlines scenarios for three possible futures and presents conclusions that indicate what can be done to achieve a political transition to maximize the prospects for a good human future in the 21st century

Regime Support in Non-democratic and Democratic Contexts Richard Rose, William Mishler, 2000

Imbalance of Power I. William Zartman, 2009 Now that the clear delineations of the Cold War era are behind us what are the contours of the international system And what does the new reality mean for the United States the acknowledged hegemon Provocatively applying IR theory to the world of policy analysis Imbalance of Power showcases current policy debates about the nature of both the international order and the role of the US within it The authors bring to life concepts of realism hegemony liberalism and constructivism making it clear why these ideas are so relevant to understanding the challenges of world politics today In the process they address thorny issues of structure vs policy context vs content even determinism vs choice shedding light on the shape of a seemingly amorphous system A stellar group of authors provocatively debate the nature of the current international order and the role of the US within it

Citizen Support for Democratic and Autocratic Regimes Marlene Mauk,2020-04-30 Citizen Support for Democratic and Autocratic Regimes takes a political culture perspective on the struggle between democracy and autocracy by examining how these regimes fare in the eyes of their citizens Taking a globally comparative approach it studies both the levels as well as the individual and system level sources of political support in democracies and autocracies worldwide The book develops an explanatory model of regime support which includes both individual and system level determinants and specifies not only the general causal mechanisms and pathways through which these determinants affect regime support but also spells out how these effects might vary between the two types of regimes It empirically tests its propositions using multi level structural equation modeling and a comprehensive dataset that combines recent public opinion data from six cross national survey projects with aggregate data from various sources for more than 100 democracies and autocracies It finds that both the levels and individual level sources of regime support are the same in democracies and autocracies but that the way in which system level context factors affect regime support differs between the two types of regimes The results enhance our understanding of what determines citizen support for fundamentally different regimes help assessing the present and future stability of democracies and autocracies and provide clear policy implications to those interested in strengthening support for democracy and or fostering democratic change in autocracies Comparative Politics is a series for researchers teachers and students of political science that deals with contemporary government and politics Global in scope books in the series are characterised by a stress on comparative analysis and strong methodological rigour The series is published in association with the European Consortium for Political Research For more information visit www.ecprnet.eu The series is edited by Susan Scarrow Chair of the Department of Political Science University of Houston and Jonathan Slapin Professor Department of Political Science University of Zurich
