Disease Control Priorities In Developing Countries:

Disease Control Priorities in Developing Countries Dean T. Jamison, W. Henry Mosley, Anthony R. Measham, Oxford University, Banco Mundial, 1993 Disease Control Priorities in Developing Countries, 1993 Disease Control Priorities in Developing Countries D. T. a.o Jamison, World Bank, 1993 Between 1950 and 1990 life expectancy in developing countries increased from forty to sixty three years with a concomitant rise in the incidence of the noncommunicable diseases of adults and the elderly Yet there remains a huge unfinished agenda for dealing with undernutrition and the communicable childhood diseases These developments have intensified the need for better information on the effectiveness and cost of health interventions To assist countries to define essential health service packages this book provides information on disease control interventions for the commonest diseases and injuries in developing countries The decision was made to go ahead for two reasons First because the combined insights of economists epidemiologists and clinicians could give valuable guidance in the difficult choices facing decisionmakers in developing countries aid agencies and the World Bank Second because for the most part other reviews did not systematically assess the cost effectiveness of available interventions Disease Control Priorities in Developing Countries Dean T. Jamison, Joel G. Breman, Anthony R. Measham, George Alleyne, Mariam Claeson, David B. Infectious Diseases, 1994-10 Health Sector Reform in Asia and the Pacific, 1999 Disease Control Priorities, Third Edition (Volume 7) Vikram Patel, Daniel Chisholm, Tarun Dua, 2017-12-04 At the turn of the millennium the world experienced a dramatic increase in funding for global health programs Competing demands for these resources meant that policymakers needed access to valid evidence based information on the costs and consequences of a broad range of health interventions By providing systematic and comparable information about purchasing health in LMICs Disease Control Priorities in Developing Countries Second Edition greatly informed and enriched these conversations and we hope improved resource allocations Nearly ten years later increased attention to chronic diseases and the importance of health systems in providing access to quality care is once again reshaping the global health landscape Low and middle income countries are continuing to set priorities for funding and deploying specific interventions but with a greater appreciation for the contribution of program and economic evaluation to informed decision making The need to make decisions across an increasingly complex set of policy and intervention choices attuned to specific health system capabilities makes a third iteration of Disease Control Priorities all the more critical Similar to the first and second editions of Disease Control Priorities DCP1 and DCP2 the aim of the third edition DCP3 is to influence program design and resource allocation at global and country levels by providing an up to date comprehensive review of the effectiveness of priority health interventions It presents systematic and comparable economic evaluations of selected interventions delivery platforms and policies based on newly developed economic methods DCP3 further expands on the scope of intervention assessments found in DCP1 and DCP2 by presenting findings in nine individual volumes It is clear that optimal global health programming requires a comprehensive evidence base to help determine what works what does not how much it will cost DCP3 will allow users to set global and national priorities for health in an informed manner American Journal of Public Health ,2008 Abstracts on Rural Development in the Tropics ,1994
