Johns, 2001-11-01 For the first time the major theoretical and pedagogical approaches to genre and related issues of social construction are presented in a single volume providing an overview of the state of the art for practitioners in applied linguistics ESL EFL pedagogies rhetoric and composition studies around the world Unlike volumes that present one theoretical stance this book attempts to give equal time to all theoretical and pedagogical camps Included are chapters by authors from the Sydney School the New Rhetoric and English for Specific Purposes as well as contributions from other practitioners who pose questions that cross theoretical lines Genre in the Classroom includes all of the major theoretical views of genre that influence pedagogical practice takes an international approach drawing from all parts of the world in which genre theory has been applied in the classroom Australia Canada Hong Kong the Middle East the United States features contributors who are all both theorists and classroom practitioners lending credibility and authenticity to the arguments combines theory and practice in every chapter showing how particular theoretical views influence classroom practice grounds pedagogical practices in their own regional and theoretical histories openly discusses problems and questions that genre theory raises and presents some of the solutions suggested and offers a concluding chapter that argues for two macro genres and with responses to this argument by noted genre theorists from three theoretical camps The International Journal of Speech, Language and the Law, 2007 Making Sense of Discourse Analysis Brian Paltridge, 2000 Making sense of discourse analysis brings together the key systems of discourse analysis The book overviews and explains communicative language theory speech act theory conversational analysis genre analysis and critical discourse analysis Each chapter provides a historical context definitions for key components of each system or theory being described textual examples with explanation and structured activities for readers to try out the systems and theories for themselves p v

Academic Discourse John Flowerdew, 2014-06-11 Academic Discourse presents a collection of specially commissioned articles on the theme of academic discourse Divided into sections covering the main approaches each begins with a state of the art overview of the approach and continues with exemplificatory empirical studies Genre analysis corpus linguistics contrastive rhetoric and ethnography are comprehensively covered through the analysis of various academic genres research articles PhD these textbooks argumentative essays and business cases Academic Discourse brings together state of the art analysis and theory in a single volume It also features an introduction which provides a survey and rationale for the material implications for pedagogy at the end of each chapter topical review articles with example studies a glossary The breadth of critical writing and from a wide geographical spread makes Academic Discourse a fresh and insightful addition to the field of discourse analysis Learning Languages Through Technology Elizabeth Hanson-Smith, Sarah Rilling, 2006 While posing important questions about how learning proceeds with new technologies this volume demonstrates how teachers captivate

the imagination of learners from school children to postgraduates by providing real world purposes for language The authors are from educational institutions in many regions of the world and describe technology use from the lowest levels such as word processing and scanning to high end multimedia and interactive communications through voice and video on the Internet Technology is perhaps the best means to creating an environment conducive to language learning Technology can support teachers in making language learning faster easier less painful and more engaging and helps create an optimal language learning environment Learning Languages through Technology reflects the many and varied ways teachers are currently using computers and the Internet and provides a rich resource for both novice and expert educator The volume is divided into four sections Language Development Online Skill Building through Technology Content Based and Task Based Learning Collaborative CALL Authentic Audience in a Web Based World Constructivism in Professional Development Features throughout the volume are helpful to pre and in service teachers each chapter opens with a preview of ideas to ponder before reading and each of the four sections begins with a preview of the chapters and concludes with a thought provoking issue in technology and pedagogy Follow up questions for class discussion further research and activities appear at the end of each section leading readers further into the discussion of the role technology plays in learning both currently and in the future Appendices list the tools software and Web sites helpful in using technology with learners

Resources in Education, 1984 A Novice Teacher's Approach to Decision-making Tiina-Maija Hukari, 2005 Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts, 2008 Books in Print Supplement, 2002 Reading All Types of Writing Alison Barbara Littlefair, 1991 Looks at new thinking about genre and register which can inform the teaching of reading The book aims to offer a practical way of understanding language and the possibility of using this knowledge in both primary and secondary school classrooms

Teacher Written Commentary in Second Language Writing Classrooms Lynn M. Goldstein, 2005 Although second language writing instructors know that providing effective written feedback is essential to any good composition course beginning and seasoned teachers alike struggle with this challenging task In Teacher Written Commentary in Second Language Writing Classrooms Lynn M Goldstein uses ample research and experiential evidence to explain both how and why teachers should comment on their students writing assignments Among the problems that Goldstein addresses are how to attend to the product without slighting the process how to intervene in process without appropriating product how to facilitate student comprehension and use of teacher feedback while promoting student independence and how to respond efficiently while remaining attentive to individual student needs While it may not necessarily reduce the time spent on commenting the book will enable teachers and teachers in training to provide written commentary that will help their students to become stronger and more independent writers in English This volume is the only source that contains such in depth consideration of the issues and the range of practices within teacher written commentary and the only resource that focuses solely on issues of rhetoric and content in multilingual writing students texts

Teachers and teacher educators will appreciate the Goldstein's thorough and well-grounded analysis. Lynn M. Goldstein is Professor of TESOL and Applied Linguistics, Monterey Institute of International Studies, CA.

Academic Writing and Genre Ian Bruce, 2008-04-07. The focus of this book is the use of genre-based approaches to teaching academic writing. Genre-based courses enable second language learners to integrate their linguistic, organisational, and contextual knowledge in a variety of different tasks. The book reviews pedagogical approaches to genre through English for Specific Purposes and Systemic Functional Linguistics to present a synthesis of the current research being undertaken in the field. From this theoretical base, Ian Bruce proposes a new model of genre-based approaches to academic writing and analyses the ways in which this can be implemented in pedagogy and curriculum design. Academic Writing and Genre is a cutting-edge monograph which will be essential reading for researchers in applied linguistics.

English Studies Bruce McComiskey, 2006. Well-known scholars in the field explore the important qualities and functions of English studies constituent disciplines: Ellen Barton on linguistics and discourse analysis; Janice Lauer on rhetoric and composition; Katharine Haake on creative writing; Richard Taylor on literature and literary criticism; Amy Elias on critical theory and cultural studies; and Robert Yagelski on English education and the productive differences and similarities among them that define English studies. Continuing importance: Faculty and students in both undergraduate and graduate courses will find the volume an invaluable overview of an increasingly fragmented field, as will department administrators who are responsible for evaluating the contributions of diverse faculty members but whose academic training may be specific to one discipline. Each chapter of English Studies is an argument for the value and the right to equal status of each individual discipline among all English studies disciplines; yet the book is also an argument for disciplinary integration.
