Data Preparation for Data Mining Using SAS Mamdouh Refaat, 2010 Are you a data mining analyst who spends up to 80% of your time assuring data quality then preparing that data for developing and deploying predictive models And do you find lots of literature on data mining theory and concepts but when it comes to practical advice on developing good mining views find little how to information And are you like most analysts preparing the data in SAS This book is intended to fill this gap as your source of practical recipes It introduces a framework for the process of data preparation for data mining and presents the detailed implementation of each step in SAS In addition business applications of data mining modeling require you to deal with a large number of variables typically hundreds if not thousands Therefore the book devotes several chapters to the methods of data transformation and variable selection A complete framework for the data preparation process including implementation details for each step The complete SAS implementation code which is readily usable by professional analysts and data miners A unique and comprehensive approach for the treatment of missing values optimal binning and cardinality reduction Assumes minimal proficiency in SAS and includes a quick start chapter on writing SAS macros

Data Preprocessing in Data Mining Salvador García, Julián Luengo, Francisco Herrera, 2014-08-30 Data Preprocessing for Data Mining addresses one of the most important issues within the well known Knowledge Discovery from Data process Data directly taken from the source will likely have inconsistencies errors or most importantly it is not ready to be considered for a data mining process Furthermore the increasing amount of data in recent science industry and business applications calls to the requirement of more complex tools to analyze it Thanks to data preprocessing it is possible to convert the impossible into possible adapting the data to fulfill the input demands of each data mining algorithm Data preprocessing includes the data reduction techniques which aim at reducing the complexity of the data detecting or removing irrelevant and noisy elements from the data This book is intended to review the tasks that fill the gap between the data acquisition from the source and the data mining process A comprehensive look from a practical point of view including basic concepts and surveying the techniques proposed in the specialized literature is given Each chapter is a stand alone guide to a particular data preprocessing topic from basic concepts and detailed descriptions of classical algorithms to an incursion of an exhaustive catalog of recent developments The in depth technical descriptions make this book suitable for technical professionals researchers senior undergraduate and graduate students in data science computer science and engineering

Data Preparation for Social Network Mining and Analysis Yazhe Wang, 2014 This dissertation studies the problem of preparing good quality social network data for data analysis and mining Modern online social networks such as Twitter Facebook and LinkedIn have rapidly grown in popularity The consequent availability of a wealth of social network data provides an unprecedented opportunity for data analysis and mining researchers to determine useful and actionable information in a wide variety of fields such as social sciences marketing management and security However raw social network data are vast noisy distributed and sensitive in nature which challenge data mining and analysis tasks in storage efficiency accuracy etc Many mining algorithms cannot operate or generate accurate results on the vast and messy data Thus social network data preparation deserves special attention as it processes raw data and transforms them into usable forms for data mining and analysis tasks Data preparation consists of four main steps namely data collection data cleaning data reduction and data conversion each of which deals with different challenges of the raw data In this dissertation we consider three important problems related to the data collection and data conversion steps in social network data preparation

Data Mining Krzysztof J. Cios, Witold Pedrycz, Roman W. Swiniarski, Lukasz Andrzej Kurgan, 2007-10-05 If you torture the data long enough Nature will confess said 1991 Nobel winning economist Ronald Coase The statement is still true However achieving this lofty goal is not easy First long enough may in practice be too long in many applications and thus unacceptable Second to get confession from large data sets one needs to use state of the art torturing tools Third Nature is very stubborn not yielding easily or unwilling to reveal its secrets at all Fortunately while being aware of the above facts the reader a data miner will find several efficient data mining tools described in this excellent book The book discusses various issues connecting the whole spectrum of approaches methods techniques and algorithms falling under the umbrella of data mining It starts with data understanding and preprocessing then goes through a set of methods for supervised and unsupervised learning and concludes with model assessment data security and privacy issues It is this specific approach of using the knowledge discovery process that makes this book a rare one indeed and thus an indispensable addition to many other books on data mining To be more precise this is a book on knowledge discovery from data As for the data sets the easy to make statement is that there is no part of modern human activity left untouched by both the need and the desire to collect data The consequence of such a state of affairs is obvious
