Databases in Systematics R. Allkin, F. A. Bisby, 1984 Sci-Tech Libraries Serving Zoological Gardens Ellis Mount, 2019-12-06 In response to the general lack of information about zoo libraries this book first published in 1988 compiles a collection of descriptions of the libraries serving six American zoos The accounts of zoo libraries include the National Zoological Park in Washington DC the Lincoln Park Zoo in Chicago and the Minnesota Zoological Garden Library in St Paul The contributors detail the types of collections and services offered at zoo libraries In addition a survey made of 78 American zoo libraries is included including information about their staffs facilities collections and services as well as data on 32 archive collections Managing Global Genetic Resources National Research Council, Board on Agriculture, Committee on Managing Global Genetic Resources: Agricultural Imperatives, 1993-02-01 This anchor volume to the series Managing Global Genetic Resources examines the structure that underlies efforts to preserve genetic material including the worldwide network of genetic collections the role of biotechnology and a host of issues that surround management and use Among the topics explored are in situ versus ex situ conservation management of very large collections of genetic material problems of quarantine the controversy over ownership or copyright of genetic material and more The Marine Biology of the South China Sea III Brian Morton, 1998-07-01 The first conference on the Marine Biology of the South China Sea was convened in Hong Kong in 1990 to celebrate the opening of the Swire Institute of Marine Science The second was convened in Guangzhou China in 1993 The third conference returned to Hong Kong in 1996 and in a continuing pattern of growth was attended by 127 scientists and students from 14 countries and territories Of the 104 keynote addresses papers and posters presented at the meeting 42 are published here following critical peer review under the symposium categories of Taxonomy and Biological Diversity Biology and Ecology and Coastal Zone Management and Conservation of the Biological Resources of the South China Sea Each conference sets its own symposia themes but in view of the rapid perceived decline in the marine environment of the South China Sea and the overexploitation of its resources the 1996 meeting focused its attention on these issues There are many meetings related to marine science convened by the countries of the South China rim Some are national others are international but most are typically convened by agencies and attendance is restricted to an invited few usually senior scientists Europe hosts a European Marine Biology Symposium that is convened in a different country each year and which sets the meeting s themes The proceedings of those meetings constitute one of the most authoritative accounts of the marine biology of European waters The meeting itself provides a forum for scientists and students so that international collaborative research is now a key feature of European marine science First convened in 1996 the 32 symposia are a tribute to international co operation in research in a marine environment that of itself knows no boundaries The South China Sea countries also need such a forum free of political dogma This conference proceedings is the third to help promote such an event hopefully one day at a greater frequency than three years The fourth conference is to be convened in the Philippines in 1999 This volume then is an international perspective on the South China Sea by scientists who research it and are concerned for its future It contains information that should appeal to marine biologists throughout the world and in particular to those in Asia The Biodiversity of Microorganisms and Invertebrates D. L. Hawksworth,1991 Genetic Resources of Phaseolus Beans Paul Gepts,2012-12-06 The period following the second world war has witnessed an expanding commitment to increased food production in tropical countries Public and private initiatives at the national and international levels have led to the creation of programs geared specifically towards the improvement of food crops in tropical conditions Examples of this increased commitment are the network of international agricultural research centers and numerous bilateral aid projects As a consequence crop improvement has become a truly worldwide endeavor relying on an international network of institutions and collaborators This holds also for Phaseolus beans Following the discovery of the Americas Phaseolus beans became distributed on all six continents Yet until not so long ago most of the research on Phaseolus improvement took place in developed countries In recognition of the nutritional importance of Phaseolus beans in developing countries this has changed considerably in the last years principally perhaps through the activities of the Centro Internacional de Agricultura Tropical CIAT and the International Board for Plant Genetic Resources IBPGR Consequently the scope of the research on Phaseolus has broadened considerably and the number of Phaseolus researchers is larger than ever before

G. van den Berg,2001 Building Databases for Global Science International Geographical Union. Global Database Planning Project. Meeting,1988 Proceedings of the first meeting of the International Geographic Union Global Database Planning Project held at Tynney Hall Hampshire UK May 1988 Summarizes current work of national and international agencies responsible for environmental monitoring and modelling Examines the philosophical methodological technical legal and organizational problems associated with running these databases defines the shortcomings and advantages of selected data sources presents an overview of future developments No index Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR The Kew Record of Taxonomic Literature Relating to Vascular Plants for ... ,1984 The Kew Record of Taxonomic Literature ,1989 Designs for a Global Plant Species Information System F. A. Bisby,George F. Russell,R. J. Pankhurst,1993 Demand for the conservation of rapidly disappearing plants and ecological communities has provided botanists systematists and computer scientists with a unified goal the production of a computer based information checklist for all of the world's plants Progress has been rapid in recent years From a diverse array of disconnected systems and databases there now exists a single internationally supervised organization that is working to create an Internet accessible common directory of existing databases and a computer based vascular plants action list This book details the proceedings of that organization's symposium which examined the wide range of options open to the biodiversity community in creating a global plant species information system Questions addressed include how an effective single taxonomic catalog and reference system can be conceived and implemented what computer system software and data structures might enable both contributions from many sites and global access to the information and how the needs of the biodiversity conservation pharmaceutical agrochemical biotechnology and plant breeding communities can be met by using the plant catalog as a backbone for a variety of other databases of applied botanical data This volume will be welcomed by all those in the fields of biodiversity and conservation who want to follow the details of this stimulating and important endeavor

Floristics for the 21st Century Nancy R. Morin, 1989 Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70 GIS/LIS '89 American Society for Photogrammetry and Remote Sensing, 1989 Australian Grass Genera Leslie Watson, M. J. Dallwitz, 1985 Recoding the Museum Ross Parry, 2007-11-19 Why has it taken so long to make computers work for the museum sector And why are museums still having some of the same conversations about digital technology that they began back in the late 1960s Does there continue to be a basic incompatibility between the practice of the museum and the functions of the computer that explains this disconnect Drawing upon an impressive range of professional and theoretical sources this book offers one of the first substantial histories of museum computing Its ambitious narrative attempts to explain a series of essential tensions between curatorship and the digital realm Ultimately it reveals how through the emergence of standards increased coordination and celebration rather than fearing of the virtual the sector has experienced a broadening of participation a widening of creative horizons and ultimately has helped to define a new cultural role for museums Having confronted and understood its past what emerges is a museum transformed rescripted re calibrated rewritten reorganised

Bothalia, 1987 Bulletin - Association pour l'étude taxonomique de la flore d'Afrique tropicale Association pour l'étude taxonomique de la flore d'Afrique tropicale, 1977 Information Technology, Plant Pathology, and Biodiversity P. D. Bridge, 1998 Information technology is revolutionizing the handling of biological information The British Society for Plant Pathology BSPP has been at the forefront of several initiatives in handling information electronically while the Systematics Association has a long standing involvement in computer based species identification BSPP and the Systematics Association recognised the opportunity to join forces and develop a combined program for a conference on these themes held in December 1996 at the University of Kent at Canterbury This book presents 40 edited and revised papers from that conference The topics covered are wide ranging and focus on several themes There are papers on subjects as diverse as biological databases geographic information systems probabilistic identification systems and electronic teaching aids Written by authors from Europe North and Central America China India and New Zealand the book provides an essential review for plant pathologists and taxonomists as well as other biologists wishing to keep up with the information revolution
