

"Good!" he whispered. "Only one more round and I'm home for good!" Then he started the sling over his head and sent the stone whirling through the air.

"Stone!" The noise burst through the air and was right on target. For a minute Goliath seemed unconscious. Then he gave a jump, snatched forward and doubled over the ground like one that was dead.

"Whoooo!"

David could not let the ground shake beneath his feet.

There was more stone. The soldiers on both sides sprang forward to find out what had happened. David ran straight up to Goliath and pulled out the giant's sword. He used it right over his head.

"Thwack!" The giant's head was rolling. David grasped it by the foot and held it up to the air. Suddenly the bottom side of the object burst into a thousand stars of sparks, all twinkling. The soldiers passed over the valley and up the other side, naming after the vanished Philistine.

They showed David the way back to Gath and Ekron. "What a hero! What a day!" The sons of Israel looked on the mighty Philistine. It was all thanks to a shepherd boy who dared to answer the challenge of a giant killing Israel and their God.
