Conventional Arms And The Security Of Europe:

Conventional Arms Control And The Security Of Europe Uwe Nerlich, 2019-04-12 This book is an outcome of the conference on Arms Control and Conventional Defense in Europe held in West Berlin in 1987 The discussion in the conference led to several conclusions regarding the prospects for conventional arms control CONVENTIONAL ARMS CONTROL AND THE SECURITY OF EUROPE. , 2019 European Security in the 1990s W. Laqueur, L. Sloss, 2013-11-11 Rarely if ever have the political economic and military foundations of the Western Alliance been in such a state of flux Walter Laqueur and Leon Sloss therefore deserve credit not just for the quality of the analysis in this superb book but also for the timeliness of its appearance As Laqueur says in his chapter Touring the Western European Defense Horizon if the likely development of European defense policies is not particularly reassuring at least it gives no grounds for despair The list of problems we face is a daunting one First there is the spiralling cost of defense expenditures particularly in the absence of significant NATO or inter European cooperation This is particularly serious in light of the reluctance to increase or even maintain current expenditures in the midst of Mikhail Gorbachev's peace offensive and the extraordinary changes in Eastern Europe both of which have had a dramatic impact on Western public opinion There is also a problem in the perceived relative economic decline of the United States vis a vis Western Europe and Japan which only exacerbates calls to reduce the number of American troops in Europe Other dangers to the political cohesion and military credibility of the alliance include demographic trends that threaten current manpower levels transatlantic acrimony over the burden sharing issue and political pressures particularly in West Germany toward denuclearization and even neutralism The Handbook of European Defence Policies and Armed Forces Hugo Meijer, Marco Wyss, 2018-06-22 The armed forces of Europe have undergone a dramatic transformation since the collapse of the Soviet Union The Handbook of European Defence Policies and Armed Forces provides the first comprehensive analysis of national security and defence policies strategies doctrines capabilities and military operations as well as the alliances and partnerships of European armed forces in response to the security challenges Europe has faced since the end of the cold war A truly cross European comparison of the evolution of national defence policies and armed forces remains a notable blind spot in the existing literature The Handbook of European Defence Policies and Armed Forces aims to fill this gap with fifty one contributions on European defence and international security from around the world The six parts focus on country based assessments of the evolution of the national defence policies of Europe's major medium and lesser powers since the end of the cold war the alliances and security partnerships developed by European states to cooperate in the provision of national security the security challenges faced by European states and their armed forces ranging from interstate through intra state and transnational the national security strategies and doctrines developed in response to these challenges the military capabilities and the underlying defence and technological industrial base brought to bear to support national strategies and doctrines and finally the national or multilateral military operations by European armed forces The contributions to The Handbook collectively demonstrate the fruitfulness of giving analytical precedence back to the comparative study of national defence policies and armed forces across Europe NATO and Western Security in the 1980's--the European Perception United States. Arms Control and Security: The Changing Role of Conventional Arms Control in Europe Kevin Wright, 2017-11-01 This title was first published in 2000 The aim of this text is to explore conventional arms control in Europe The early chapters provide a primarily historical perspective looking at the context foundations main provisions and institutional structure of the main agreements The later chapters explore the continuing and likely future roles of the OSCE and NATO in the arms control process The final chapters examine more contemporary developments by looking at the Adapted CFE Treaty and Vienna Documents agreed at the OSCE Istanbul Summit in November 1998 and the challenges posed to existing arrangements by the changing and emergent security threats that potentially face Europe Confidence and Security Building Measures in the New Europe Zdzislaw Lachowski, 2004 The adaptation of the 1990 CFE Treaty and the Vienna Document 1994 of the Negotiations on Confidence and Security Building Measures were both completed by the November 1999 OSCE Istanbul summit meeting In the new century Europe will continue to elaborate further co operative security arrangements to better respond to new risks and challenges in the field of security and help create stability in areas of tension and conflict The aim is twofold to strengthen the pan European process of building confidence and security and to develop measures and arms control related arrangements below the continental level at the regional and subregional levels This research report examines the record of CSBMs in Europe as well as regional arms control efforts in the former Yugoslavia in the 1990s It contains important reference material on military security endeavours of this type A New Approach to Conventional Arms Control in Europe Samuel Charap, Alice Lynch, John J. Drennan, 2021-09-30 Over 30 years after the end of the Cold War military tensions have returned to Europe Both the North Atlantic Treaty Organization NATO and Russia are boosting their deployments in close proximity to one another and in multiple domains At the same time a host of new or dramatically improved conventional capabilities have been fielded introducing a significant level of uncertainty into the security environment Meanwhile political and military to military relations are at a post Cold War low with communication as the exception not the norm and the structure of interaction created by arms control and confidence and security building measures almost entirely collapsed Through a combination of interviews workshops and structured analysis on the causes of potential conflict the authors of this report outline new conventional arms control CAC measures to lower the risk of conflict in Europe Although it once served as a cornerstone of European security the current regional CAC regime is outdated and largely irrelevant to today's challenges Rather than starting with the existing agreements the authors begin with an investigation of the catalysts of possible conflict and build arms control policy options on that basis How might specific changes in behavior posture presence technology or capabilities and varying perceptions thereof drive conflict What capabilities or combination of capabilities are destabilizing and why And what CAC measures could be used to address these risks The authors use the answers to these questions to suggest a menu of options for a new CAC regime that could address the regional security challenges of the 21st century Emerging Dimensions of European Security Policy Wolfgang F. Danspeckgruber, 2019-04-08 This book represents an overview of European security affairs as of 1989 1990 It deals with fundamental theoretical and political strategic considerations looks at arms control developments and examines European defense economies and military industrial capabilities of U S The Vienna Meeting Of The Conference On Security And Cooperation In Europe, 1986 1989 Stefan Lehne, 2019-07-11 This volume focuses on the third Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe CSCE Follow Up Meeting which took place in Vienna from November 1986 to January 1989 against the background of dynamic developments in Eastern Europe A New Approach to Conventional Arms Control in Europe Samuel Charap, 2020 Over 30 years after the end of the Cold War military tensions have returned to Europe Both the North Atlantic Treaty Organization NATO and Russia are boosting their deployments in close proximity to one another and in multiple domains At the same time a host of new or dramatically improved conventional capabilities have been fielded introducing a significant level of uncertainty into the security environment Meanwhile political and military to military relations are at a post Cold War low with communication as the exception not the norm and the structure of interaction created by arms control and confidence and security building measures almost entirely collapsed Through a combination of interviews workshops and structured analysis on the causes of potential conflict the authors of this report outline new conventional arms control CAC measures to lower the risk of conflict in Europe Although it once served as a cornerstone of European security the current regional CAC regime is outdated and largely irrelevant to today s challenges Rather than starting with the existing agreements the authors begin with an investigation of the catalysts of possible conflict and build arms control policy options on that basis How might specific changes in behavior posture presence technology or capabilities and varying perceptions thereof drive conflict What capabilities or combination of capabilities are destabilizing and why And what CAC measures could be used to address these risks The authors use the answers to these questions to suggest a menu of options for a new CAC regime that could address the regional security challenges of the 21st century The Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe and the Post-cold War Era Michael R. Lucas, 1990 The Promise and Reality of European Security Cooperation Mary McKenzie, Peter Loedel, 1998-03-19 Providing a timely account of European security developments this edited collection delves into the theoretical and political debates central to European security cooperation The essays analyze the interaction between states and institutions as they shape European security cooperation in the wake of the Cold War After outlining the goals and context of the project the book turns to case studies of the roles and policies of the U S Russia Germany and France European security institutions and arms control regimes such as the European Union

the Western European Union NATO and the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe are examined Conventional forces in Europe and confidence and security building measures are also explored Throughout the contributors focus on the possibilities and limits of security cooperation as Europe prepares for the next century Students and scholars concerned with international security issues international relations theory and European security and politics will be particularly interested Vermeulen ,W. De Bondt,2017-02-15 This book offers an insight into the historical institutional and topical development of the EU policy in the areas of justice home affairs and security well embedded in a broader international context The main part of the book dedicated to the EU is therefore preceded by a part on relevant cooperation on the Benelux and Schengen levels and followed by a part on cooperation in the areas concerned on Council of Europe NATO OSCE G8 OECD and UN levels Without a proper understanding of those cooperation levels the development and functioning of the EU would be hard to fully grasp Before addressing the actual policy dimension all parts start with a historical introduction and a sketch of institutional structures and functioning For students and professionals in criminology law and political science and every one interested in European and international criminal policy making this book will prove relevant or insightful Annual
