Cooking With Mud The Idea Of Mess In Nineteenth Century Art And Fiction:

Cooking with Mud David Trotter, 2000 Mess is age old and universal as phenomenon and as topic The evidence collected in this book suggests however that the second half of the nineteenth century saw the first stirrings in Western culture of a primary interest in mess for its own sake Messes like modern identities happen by accident their representation in painting and fiction made it possible to think boldly and inventively about chance Ranging widely from Turner to Degas and from Melville to Maupassant and the New Woman writers this book outlines a style of commentary on modern life in which the ancient dichotomy of order and chaos was supplanted by a distinction between different kinds of mess Dickens and the Despised Mother Shale Preston, 2013-01-25 This work offers an original interpretation of the mothers of the protagonists in Dickens's autobiographical novels Taking Julia Kristeva's psychoanalytic concept of abjection and Mary Douglas's anthropological analysis of pollution as its conceptual framework the book argues that Dickens's primary emotional response towards the mother who abandoned him to work in a blacking warehouse was disgust and suggests that we can trace similar signs of disgust in the narrators of his fictional autobiographies David Copperfield Bleak House and Great Expectations The author provides a close reading of Dickens's autobiographical fragment and opens up the possibility that Dickens's feelings towards his mother actually bore a significant influence on his fiction The book closes with a provocative discussion of Dickens's compulsive Sikes and Nancy public readings Eating and Identity in Postcolonial Fiction Paul Vlitos, 2018-10-11 This book focuses on the fiction of four postcolonial authors V S Naipaul Anita Desai Timothy Mo and Salman Rushdie It argues that meals in their novels act as sites where the relationships between the individual subject and the social identities of race class and gender are enacted Drawing upon a variety of academic fields and disciplines including postcolonial theory historical research food studies and recent attempts to rethink the concept of world literature it dedicates a chapter to each author tracing the literary cultural and historical contexts in which their texts are located and exploring the ways in which food and the act of eating acquire meanings and how those meanings might clash collide and be disputed Not only does this book offer suggestive new readings of the work of its four key authors but it challenges the reader to consider the significance of food in postcolonial fiction more generally Paranoid Modernism David Trotter, 2001 Seeking reasons for modernism's compulsion to experiment this book explores contemporary definitions of paranoia and its examination through fiction By Accident or Design Paul Fyfe, 2015-03-19 On the banks of the Thames it is a tremendous chapter of accidents As Henry James surveys London in 1888 he sums up what had fascinated urban observers for a century the random and even accidental development of this unprecedented form of human settlement the modern metropolis By Accident or Design Writing the Victorian Metropolis takes James at his word arguing that accident was both a powerful metaphor and material context through which the Victorians arrested the paradoxes of metropolitan modernity and reconfigured understandings of form and change Paul Fyfe shows how the material conditions of urban accidents offer new and compelling modes of analysis for intellectual and literary history Through extensive archival study and interdisciplinary analysis of urban industrial accidents risk management and civic improvements By Accident or Design reclaims the metropolis as ground zero for some of the most important thinking about causation in the nineteenth century It demonstrates the centrality of interdependent concepts of design and accident not only to metropolitan discourse but also to current critical discourse about the formal and circulatory dynamics of Victorian metropolitan writing Thus this book offers a new vocabulary for the dialectics of the modern city and the signature forms of writing about it including the newspaper the illustrated periodical the industrial novel and urban broadsheets

Formless Patrick Crowley, Paul Hegarty, 2005 The papers in this volume challenge the concept of form and aim to set out explore and develop different theories and examples of the formless In so doing they raise questions of form and notions of formlessness as distinct from something called the formless The starting point for many of the contributors is Georges Bataille's highly influential article entitled informe formless Here in a context where art philosophy and anthropology were merging Bataille tried to question the idea of formlessness as simply applying to things without form This book through a diversity of articles in various domains asks how and why the formless is such a dominant idea from the nineteenth century onwards and it asks the question what is formless the Dust identifies a heretofore overlooked literary phenomenon that author Beth Sutton Ramspeck calls literary housekeeping. The three writers she examines rejected turn of the century aestheticism and modernism in favor of a literature that is practical even ostensibly mundane designed to set the human household in order. To Mary Augusta Ward Sarah Grand and Charlotte Perkins Gilman housekeeping represented public responsibilities making the food supply safe reforming politics and improving the human race itself. Raising the Dust places their writing in the context of the late Victorian era in particular the eugenics movement the proliferation of household conveniences the home economics movement and decreased reliance on servants. These changes affected relationships between the domestic sphere and the public sphere and hence shaped the portrayal of domesticity in the era's fiction and nonfiction. Moreover Ward Grand and Gilman articulated a domestic aesthetic that swept away boundaries. Sutton Ramspeck uncovers a new paradigm here literature as engaging the public realm through the devices and perspectives of the domestic. Her innovative and ambitious book also connects fixations on cleaning with the discovery of germs: the first bacterium discovered was anthrax and knowledge of its properties increased fears of dust. It analyzes advertising cards for soap and links the mental illness in Gilman's The Yellow Wall Paper to fears during the period of arsenic poisoning from wallpaper. Masculinities, Modernist Fiction and the Urban Public Sphere Scott McCracken, 2007. At the turn of the last century the public culture of Europe's cities underwent a transformation that changed both gender relations and European fiction. This book charts the changing representations of masculinity in modernist fiction in the context of the four most influential cities: London, Dublin, Paris, and Prague. Fantasies of Empire Joseph Donohue, 2005-11. Publisher description. Rivista di studi vittoriani, 2000.

George Gissing Paul Delany, 2008. George Orwell was asked to write a biography of George Gissing having hailed him as perhaps the best novelist England has produced. He had to refuse and instead of a book like this one Orwell wrote a novel. 1984. His closeness to Gissing can help draw the map of English literature from 1880 to 1950. Orwell was born in the year that Gissing died 1903. Both of them lived 46 years and died of lung disease. It is likely that Orwell borrowed the first name of his pseudonym from Gissing. Orwell though chose to live among the poor to begin a lifelong commitment to leftist politics. Gissing became poor by bad luck and bad judgement; he came to believe that political solutions were unlikely to abolish human misery and declared that the great subject of his novels was the situation of educated people with not enough money. Paul Delany's has read Gissing's 22 novels and his other works with a fine biographer's eye. Gissing was a neurotic writer and everything in his later life was determined by the twin disasters of his imprisonment and his marriage to Nell Harrison. Prison he concealed altogether. It could be argued that Victorian society rested on hypocrisy requiring everyone to lie about their desires. But the major figures in Gissing's novels are almost always bad liars. In his own case a mistake in youth created daily misery that he could never shake off. Yet Gissing the novelist gives us better than anyone the flavour of London in the 1880s and 1890s: a compound of wet streets, fog, coal smoke, narrow horizons, and an imagination equal to it all. In Paul Delany he has
