Cool Cultures Geographies Of Youth Cultures:

Cool Places Tracey Skelton, Gill Valentine, 2005-08-18 Cool Places explores the contrasting experiences of contemporary youth. The chapters draw on techno music and ecstasy in Germany, clubbing in London, global backpacking and gangs in Santa Cruz, as well as experiences at home on the streets and seeking employment. The contributors use these examples to explore representation and resistance and geographical concepts of scale and place in young people's lives within social, cultural, and feminist studies to focus upon the complexities of youth cultures and their spatial representations and interactions. Contributors: Shane Blackman, Sophie Bowlby, Myrna Margulies, Breitbart, Deborah Chambers, Luke Deforges, Claire Dwyer, Keith Hetherington, Cindi Katz, Heinz Herman, Kruger, Marion Leonard, Sally Lloyd Evans, Tim Lucas, Sara McNamee, Ben Malbon, Doreen Massey, Robina Mohammad, David Oswell, David Parker, Birgit Richard, Susan Ruddick, Tracey Skelton, Fiona Smith, Kevin Stevenson, Gill Valentine, and Paul Watt. The Bloomsbury Handbook of Popular Music and Youth Culture Andy Bennett, 2022-12-29

The Bloomsbury Handbook of Popular Music and Youth Culture provides a comprehensive and fully up to date overview of key themes and debates relating to the academic study of popular music and youth culture. While this is a highly popular and rapidly expanding field of research, there currently exists no single source reference book for those interested in this topic. The handbook is comprised of 32 original chapters written by leading authors in the field of popular music and youth culture and covers a range of topics including theory, method, historical perspectives, genre, audience, media, globalization, ageing, and generation.

Youth Identities, Localities, and Visual Material Culture Kristen Ali Eglinton, 2012-10-06 This invaluable addition to Springer's Explorations of Educational Purpose series is a revelatory ethnographic account of the visual material culture of contemporary youths in North America. The author's detailed study follows apparently dissimilar groups: black and Latino in a New York City after school club and white and Indigenous in a small Canadian community, as they inflect their nascent identities with a sophisticated sense of visual material culture in today's globalized world. It provides detailed proof of how much ethnography can add to what we know about young people's development, in addition to its potential as a model to explore new and significant avenues in pedagogy. Supported by a wealth of ethnographic evidence, the analysis tracks its subjects' responses to strikingly diverse material, ranging from autobiographical accounts by rap artists to the built environment. It shows how young people from the world's cultural epicenter, just like their counterparts in the sub-Arctic, construct racial, geographic, and gender identities in ways that are subtly responsive to what they see around them, blending localized characteristics with more widely shared visual references that are now universally accessible through the Web. The work makes a persuasive case that youthful engagement with visual material culture is a relational and productive activity that is simultaneously local and global, at once constrained and enhanced by geography, and possesses a potent and life-affirming authenticity. Densely interwoven with young people's perspectives, the author's account sets out an innovative and interdisciplinary conceptual framework, affording fresh insights into how today's youth assimilate what they perceive to be significant. Childhood Chris Jenks, 2005. Childhood is an extremely complex and highly contested concept. It refers to a life phase as well as to the age group defined as children but is also a cultural construction part of the social and economic structure of communities. The key scholarship collected, introduced and reprinted in these volumes reflects this complexity and introduces the reader to the wide variety of interpretations that have been and continue to be placed on it. It might be suggested that the push or initiative in theorizing childhood has derived from advances within sociology and anthropology. However, the future provides potential for interdisciplinary study which this collection also reflects. The contemporary study of childhood must comprise a conjoining of disciplines: sociology, anthropology, psychology, social geography, history, philosophy and socio-legal theory all have something to add to the field and are represented within the collection.

Discourse, Communication, and Tourism Adam Jaworski, Annette Pritchard, 2005-01-01. For the first time ever, this book brings together an explicit linkage between empirical and theoretical perspectives on tourism and discourse. A broad social semiotic approach is adopted to analyse a range of spoken, written and visual texts, providing a unique resource for researching and teaching tourism in the context of communication studies. Some of the key concepts explored in its chapters include space representation, the tourist experience, identity performance and authenticity and the contributors are key sociologists of tourism as well as discourse analysts and sociolinguists

Youth Culture and Private Space S. Lincoln, 2012-06-26 S. Lincoln considers the use and significance of private spaces in the lives of young people Drawing on extensive ethnographic research she explores the place of the private in youth cultural discourses both historically and contemporarily that until now have remained largely absent in youth cultural research

City Visions David Bell, Azzedine Haddour, 2018-10-08 A collection of the latest work on the city presenting contemporary theories methods and perspectives in an accessible format for upper level undergraduates and postgraduates in geography cultural studies and sociology

Youth Cultures Kerry Mallan, Sharyn Pearce, 2003-03-30 Critical essays on the youth culture and its application in literature

Contemporary Youth Culture [2 Volumes] Shirley R. Steinberg, Priya Parmar, Birgit Richard, 2006 This two volume set chronicles how technology economics the media and society created the modern concept of youth Topics explored include hip hop culture punk culture social justice movements video games political activism post feminism television race and ethnicity visual art sports drugs and much more

American Youth Cultures Neil Campbell, 2004 Surfing punk rock Dawson's Creek teen movies MTV and S. E. Hinton's The Outsiders are among the many popular cultural landmarks examined in American Youth Cultures It considers themes such as race class gender power sexuality and authority and presents innovative and challenging analyses of texts from the post war period Key questions are raised about the significance of youth within American culture Contributing to the necessary and important debate over the meanings of youth representation within American culture the ideological nature of youth and its centrality to a complex reading of popular culture are emphasised In particular the issues of gender race and sexuality are considered as central to the construction of youth identity and to other significant relationships between youth and authority The contradictions in youth representation are asserted denying any easy definitions that might serve to compound stereotypes or sustain vested interests The authors show how the cultural politics of youth are no longer only about being young but rather associated with both personal and public values aspirations and ideologies that extend way beyond any simple consideration of the self

Key Features The only available book on the subject Youth is shown to be central to contemporary American culture Contributors bring a range of approaches to bear on representations of youth in American culture

Youth, Media and Culture in the Asia Pacific Region Usha M. Rodrigues, Belinda Smail, 2008 Youth Media and Culture in the Asia Pacific Region presents an analysis of youth media activities in a diverse but geographically connected Asia Pacific region The region which is spatially connected by its colonial and imperial past is becoming a significant player in the globalized world In this context youth situated in these economically politically and socially structured communities are redefining their locales through their patterns of media use The discourse of youth in this disparate region is manifest in the media through their identity articulations and social activism The book illustrates that these youth subcultures in the Asia Pacific are part of the well marketed global consumerism culture and yet at other times independent of the commodifying impetus of global capital It draws on case studies to examine some of the media practices youth in the region are engaged in and elucidates the process of social change taking place in some Asia Pacific nations This book contributes to the important and growing field of youth media studies The regionalization of media research is necessarily recuperated here bringing large populations of media users into a frame of reference that allows critical reflection on the new waves of use and sociality in the Asia Pacific region Stephanie Hemelryk Donald Professor of International Studies UTS International Review for the Sociology of Sport ,2007-03 Environment & Planning ,2011 Environment & Planning A ,2007-07 Environment and Planning ,1999 Journal of Park and Recreation Administration ,2001 World Youth Report, 2005 United Nations. Department of Economic and Social Affairs,2005 It is ten years since the General Assembly adopted the World Programme of Action for Youth in 1995 This publication deals with fifteen identified priority issues grouped under three main contexts in which youth deal with challenges and concerns youth in a global economy youth in civil society and youth at risk It reports over 200 million youth living in poverty 130 million youth illiterate 88 million unemployed and 10 million young people living with HIV AIDS Tourism, Culture & Communication ,2004 Consuming Children Jane Kenway,Elizabeth Bullen,2001 This volume argues that people are entering another stage in the construction of the young as the demarcations between education entertainment and advertising collapse and as the lines between the generations both blur and harden Drawing from the voices of students and from contemporary cultural theory this book provokes the reader to ponder the role of the school in the age of desire BOOK JACKET Death at an Early Age and the Urban Scene Melvin Delgado,2003-06-30 While crime is down around the country many inner city youth continue to die as a result of violence drugs AIDS and other causes In response to the deaths of its young members many urban communities paint memorial murals to pay homage to the deceased and express the grief of an entire community Here Delgado explores the use of memorial murals for counseling the bereaved friends and family members of urban youth whose lives were cut short He proposes that employing such approaches can help a community address the problems inherent in their societies while remembering and celebrating the lives of their most vulnerable members Delgado begins by reviewing the key concepts and practice principles that are essential in any form of urban community social work practice He details the incidence and nature of the phenomena of death at an early age and describes the cultural aspects of grief and bereavement in general and as they pertain to the urban communities he observes Throughout his discussion of the use of memorial murals in social work practice he provides case studies about real communities and the ways in which they have used the murals to work through the grieving process The book concludes with a framework and theoretical model for social workers who work with urban populations This unique work addresses a common urban issue in the context of healing and outreach in a way that will especially appeal to social workers community leaders and organizations psychologists urban sociologists and students and scholars interested in the ways people deal with death and dying
