Dynamics Of Complex Interacting Systems:

Dynamics of Complex Interacting Systems E. Goles, Servet Martínez, 2013-04-17 This book contains the courses given at the Fourth School on Statistical Physics and Cooperative Systems held at Santiago Chile from 12th to 16th December 1994 This School brings together scientists working on subjects related to recent trends in complex systems Some of these subjects deal with dynamical systems ergodic theory cellular automata symbolic and arithmetic dynamics spatial systems large deviation theory and neural networks Scientists working in these subjects come from several areas pure and applied mathematics non linear physics biology computer science electrical engineering and artificial intelligence Each contribution is devoted to one or more of the previous subjects In most cases they are structured as surveys presenting at the same time an original point of view about the topic and showing mostly new results The expository text of Roberto Livi concerns the study of coupled map lattices CML as models of spatially extended dynamical systems CML is one of the most used tools for the investigation of spatially extended systems The paper emphasizes rigorous results about the dynamical behavior of one dimensional CML i e a uniform real local function defined in the interval  $[0, 1]$  interacting with its nearest neighbors in a one dimensional lattice

Dynamic Sustainabilities Melissa Leach, Andrew Charles Stirling, Ian Scoones, 2010-08-12 Linking environmental sustainability with poverty reduction and social justice and making science and technology work for the poor have become central practical political and moral challenges of our times These must be met in a world of rapid interconnected change in environments societies and economies and globalised fragmented governance arrangements Yet despite growing international attention and investment policy attempts often fail Why is this and what can be done about it How might we understand and address emergent threats from epidemic disease or the challenges of water scarcity in dryland India In the context of climate change how might seed systems help African farmers meet their needs and how might appropriate energy strategies be developed This book lays out a new pathways approach to address sustainability challenges such as these in today's dynamic world Through an appreciation of dynamics complexity uncertainty differing narratives and the values based aims of sustainability the pathways approach allows us to see how some approaches are dominant even though they do not produce the desired results and how to create successful alternative pathways of responding to the challenges we face As well as offering new ways of thinking about sustainability the book also suggests a series of practical ways forward in tools and methods forms of political engagement and styles of knowledge making and communication Throughout the book the practicalities of the pathways approach are illustrated using four case studies water in dryland India agricultural seeds in Africa responses to epidemic disease and energy systems climate change Published in association with the Economic and Social Research Council ESRC

Complexity Measurements and Causation for Dynamic Complex Systems Juan Guillermo Diaz Ochoa, 2025-03-13 This book examines the problems of causal determinism and limited completeness in systems theory Furthermore the author analyzes options for complexity measurements that include systems autonomy and variability for causal inference i.e the ability to derive causal relationships from data recorded as a function of time Such complexity measures present limitations in the derivation of absolute causality in complex systems and the recognition of relative and contextual causality with practical consequences for causal inference and modeling Finally the author provides concepts for relative causal determinism As a result new ideas are presented to explore the frontiers of systems theory specifically in relation to biological systems and teleonomy i.e evolved biological purposiveness This book is written for graduate students in physics biology medicine social sciences economics and engineering who are seeking new concepts of causal inference applied in systems theory It is also intended for scientists with an interest in philosophy and philosophers interested in the foundations of systems theory Additionally data scientists seeking new methods for the analysis of time series to extract features useful for machine learning will find this book of interest

Designing Human-Swarm Interaction Systems Oscar Bjurling, 2025-02-20 Swarms of Unmanned Aerial Vehicles UAVs or drones are envisioned to transform various fields from emergency response to law enforcement and military operations Drone swarms provide scalable adaptable and decentralized solutions for dynamic work environments However the successful integration of these multi agent systems into real world settings presents significant challenges particularly in terms of how humans can safely and effectively interact with and control these systems Human Swarm Interaction HSI aims to address these challenges by exploring how human operators can manage multiple drones in a cohesive manner even under highly complex uncertain conditions This thesis studies the problem of designing effective interaction mechanisms and interfaces for human operators to command drone swarms specifically addressing challenges such as managing a large number of drones supporting operators situational awareness and balancing between centralized and decentralized control The research highlights the necessity of rethinking conventional approaches by introducing alternative conceptual models such as the choir metaphor which re imagines drone swarms as coordinated semi centralized ensembles rather than purely emergent decentralized collectives This metaphor aims to balance the collective often unpredictable behavior of drone swarms with the predictable directed actions needed in operational environments By demonstrating how this metaphor can be operationalized in an HSI system architecture the thesis provides new avenues for conceptualizing human interaction with autonomous systems Using a design research approach incorporating multiple case study and scenario based design activities to envision future swarm application in dialogue with prospective end users the thesis develops and evaluates prototypes that embody these nuanced HSI concepts The interface prototypes draw design inspiration from Real Time Strategy RTS games These elements include group commands high level mission planning and resource pooling to create a hybrid interaction model that allows operators to maintain both a broad overview and precise control of multiple autonomous and collaborating drones Domain expert evaluations of these prototypes in contexts such as firefighting and airport management validate the practical utility of these concepts The findings emphasize the value of adopting a Human Technology Organization HTO perspective in the design of HSI systems Rather than focusing solely on the interaction between humans and technology this systems thinking approach acknowledges that drone swarms must be integrated into larger organizational frameworks such as emergency response command structures or airport ground operations teams It demonstrates that successful deployment requires accounting for the broader organizational context including roles workflows and coordination needs This holistic approach to HSI system design ensures that drone swarms not only meet technical performance criteria such as reliability responsiveness and scalability but also align with human and organizational needs facilitating their adoption and effective use in a wide range of real world scenarios Ultimately these contributions are intended to bridge the gap between theoretical models of swarm control and practical deployment advancing both the field of HSI and the broader adoption of drone swarm technologies utformningen av MSI system. Snarare än att enbart fokusera på interaktionen mellan människor och teknik erkänner detta systemtänkande tillvägagångssätt att drifsvärmar måste integreras i större organisatoriska ramar såsom ledningsstrukturer för rddningsinsatser eller markoperativa team på flygplatser. Det visar att framgångsrik implementering av drifsvärmar kräver att systemutvecklare tar hänsyn till det bredare organisatoriska sammanhanget inklusive roller, arbetsflöden och samverkansbehov. Detta holistiska tillvägagångssätt för utformningen av MSI system säkerställer att drifsvärmar inte bara uppfyller tekniska prestandakriterier såsom tillförlitlighet, responsivitet och skalbarhet utan också verensstämmer med mänskliga och organisatoriska behov vilket underlättar deras införande och effektiv användning i en mängd olika tillämpningsscenarier. The proceedings of the April 1996 symposium address a wide variety of applications ranging from vehicle systems to mechatronic systems. Further, they illuminate the relevancy of more fundamental areas such as control of chaos and optimal control. The 51 contributions promote theoretical and applied investigations with respect to the interaction of dynamics and control in advanced engineering applications. Additional topics include motion control, dynamics, and bifurcation of nonlinear systems, modelling and dynamics of engineering systems, vibration control.
