

An aerial photograph of a forest landscape. A winding road or path cuts through the trees, leading towards a small, light-colored building or cabin nestled among the trees. The terrain appears to be hilly or mountainous, with varying shades of green and brown indicating different types of vegetation and possibly some cleared areas or roads.

Canadian Environmental Policy Ecosystems Politics And Process:

Canadian Environmental Policy Robert Boardman, Debora VanNijnatten, 2002 Now in its second edition this book focuses on the character and significance of the politics and processes that underlie policy making on the environment It has been redesigned to reflect major trends and changes in environmental policy during the 1990s such as the effects of budgetary restraints on environmental policy and the growing importance of the provinces as environmental policy actors

Canadian Politics James Bickerton, Alain Gagnon, 2009-01-01 The new fifth edition of Canadian Politics continues the work of earlier editions in offering a comprehensive introduction to Canadian government and politics by a widely recognized and highly respected group of political scientists writing about subjects on which they are acknowledged experts For this edition the editors have organized the book into four sections Part I Citizenship Identities and Values Part II Institutions Part III Democracy and Representation and Part IV Canada in the World The fourth section develops a focus on the diverse and increasingly important influences of globalization on the Canadian polity the environment and the role of Canada in the world Of the eighteen chapters nine are completely new and six new authors appear including Martin Papillon on Aboriginal governments Peter J Stoett on Canadian international environmental policy and Andrew F Cooper on Afghanistan and Canadian foreign policy The remaining chapters have been thoroughly revised and updated The Greening of Canada G. Bruce Doern, Thomas Conway, 1994-12-15 Environmental matters have become increasingly important in Canadian and world policy agendas In this study G Bruce Doern and Thomas Conway trace the development of Canadian environment policy giving an in depth account of twenty years of environmental politics politicians institutions and decisions as seen through the evolution of Ottawa's policy agency Environment Canada The Greening of Canada is an extensively researched look at the entire period from the early 1970s to the present and is the most complete and integrated analysis yet of federal environmental institutions and key decisions From Great Lakes pollution to the Green Plan from the Stockholm Conference to the post Rio Earth Summit era the authors deal with both domestic and international events and influences on Ottawa's often abortive efforts to entrench a green agenda into national politics The book explores the crucial relationships of institutional and political power directing attention at the DOE and its parade of ministers intra cabinet battles federal provincial relations business relations and public opinion and international and Canada U S relations It also examines important topics from acid rain policy to the politics of establishing national parks and from the Green Plan to the realities of environmental enforcement Employing a framework cast as the double dynamic of environmental policy making the authors show the growing struggle between the management of power among key institutions and the need to accommodate a biophysical realm characterized by increased uncertainty as well as scientific and technological controversy Canadian Environmental Policy Robert Boardman, 1992 The book's common theme is the character and significance of the politics and processes that underlie policy making on the environment Environmental Politics in Canada Judith McKenzie, 2002

This is the only book to give background on environmental thought in both a Canadian and world context. It is designed as an introduction to environmental politics and policy with Canada as its primary focus. Including focus boxes and end of chapter study questions, it is appropriate for a wide range of students as well as scholars.

Bibliography of Agriculture with Subject Index, 1993-03 Policy Studies Journal, 2000 In the Chamber of Risks William Leiss, 2001. Leiss shows that both risk management and risk communication when properly constructed require an elaborate process because the very things that can cause harm are in most cases the same things that bring us great benefits such as paper mills, electricity from nuclear power generating stations or wireless telecommunications.

Sustainable Development and Canada O.P. Dwivedi, 2001-05. Canada is one of the most beautiful, varied and inspiring natural environments on earth. Few countries contain such topographical differences as the West Coast, the mountain regions, the prairies, the Arctic, the cityscapes close to the American border and the eastern forests. The Canadian territory is the second largest in the world and it borders on three oceans; its fourth border is with the United States, the most powerful economy in the world. This provides Canadians unique access to a large market but also raises many problems related not only to political and cultural influence but to transborder pollution. This book investigates the complexities of Canadian environmental policy. The text is split into three sections: the political context in which decisions are made, issue areas in need of engagement and perspectives on the achievement of sustainable development which colour the Canadian conceptual landscape. The first section outlines the state of the Canadian environment, the actors and institutions involved in environmental policy formation and a detailed history of Environment Canada and the international context of modern decision making. The second section is issue specific, including chapters on environmental law, risk management and environmental impact assessment, international treaties and conventions involving Canada and an overall assessment of Canadian policy. The final section deals with values and theories from gender issues to environmental ethics. The book serves as a comprehensive introduction that makes explicit recognition of the transnational character of environmental policy formation in the era of globalization and offers critical insights into the decision making process.
