Dynamic Lecturing Christine Harrington,Todd D. Zakrajsek,2023-07-03 Is the lecture an outmoded teaching method that inhibits active learning or is it a potentially powerful tool that is an essential part of every teacher s repertoire This book presents up to date research on the different types of lecture on what constitutes effective lecturing and on the impact of lecturing when done appropriately and well It fills the void in professional development resources on how to lecture validating the practice when it s aligned with the educational mission of creating engaged learning environments Christine Harrington and Todd Zakrajsek demonstrate that rather than lecture and active learning being mutually exclusive or either or propositions the effectiveness of the former can be greatly enhanced when combined with active learning techniques through what they define as dynamic lecturing and provide context about the need to balance these approaches to meet the needs of students as they progress from novice to advanced learners They present a range of strategies that enhance student learning during lectures They open each chapter with the evidence behind each lecturing strategy they describe and conclude with practical suggestions for quick application in the classroom They offer readers the lecture planning and evaluation tools for reworking their lectures in ways that provide high level engagement and achievement for their students The opening section of the book explores the benefits of lecturing and describes the different modalities of lecture with an assessment of the advantages and disadvantages of each The second section focuses on educational strategies to enhance the lecture including among others activating prior knowledge emphasizing important points effectively using multi media making concepts meaningful via examples and the importance of retrieval practice Each covers the underlying theory and research and advice on how to align the engagement techniques with instructional goals The book concludes with guidance on effective planning for lecturing and helping chairs administrators or peers engage in effective evaluation of the lecture This is a dynamic resource for all faculty interested in revitalizing their teaching The strategies are succinct easy to incorporate into lectures and done well will have immediate impact and increase student mastery of course content

Using Emerging Technologies to Enhance Student Engagement Reynol Junco, Dianne M. Timm, 2008 Today's college students have never known a time when personal computers did not exist. They attended K-12 schools where most of their classrooms were equipped with computers. Information technology has always been part of their learning process, not to mention the impact it has had on the development of their friendships, research and writing skills, shopping, and choice of college or university to attend. They expect that institutions of higher education will respond to their inquiries without delay, much in the same way that customer service is handled on the Web. Student expectations are driving the creation of live Web chats, in-house social networking sites, university wiki, and shared virtual spaces. Unfortunately, higher education faculty and staff in general, and student affairs professionals in particular, are behind the curve in their use of information technology. Student affairs professionals are only starting to become aware that they should learn about the technologies that students have already integrated into their lives. It is imperative that student affairs professionals understand these technologies and learn how to implement them to enhance student learning, build a sense of community, increase student engagement, facilitate communication. This volume examines recent research on how information technology is affecting college student development and explores ways in which institutions are responding to increased demands for using emerging technology in supporting students. This is the 124th volume of the Jossey-Bass quarterly report series New Directions for Student Services, an indispensable resource for vice presidents of student affairs, deans of students, student counselors, and other student services professionals. Each issue of New Directions for Student Services offers guidelines and programs for aiding students in their total development: emotional, social, physical, and intellectual.
