Corpus Linguistics for Oral History Chris Fitzgerald, Ivor Timmis, 2024-11-14 Corpus Linguistics for Oral History takes a step-by-step approach to presenting how corpus linguistics tools and techniques can be applied to oral history archives. Bridging the gap between the two areas, this book establishes a framework to pursue this type of research and guides the reader through tasks that will ensure practical application. It shows how oral narratives can facilitate historical linguistics, including historical sociolinguistics and historical pragmatics, and illustrates how the techniques of corpus linguistics can help social historians to analyse oral narratives in new and fruitful ways. It takes readers through each step of the process, from initial close readings of data to constructing a corpus that adheres to parameters of representativeness, through to the application of various corpus linguistics techniques. It includes an appendix of resources and examples of extracts from a global range of historical texts throughout, introducing the reader to a range of freely accessible digitized archives. This book is key reading for students and researchers working in History and Corpus Linguistics. History students will find a new perspective on approaching primary historical sources, while linguistics students will find insights into an avenue of data worthy of multiple levels of linguistic analysis.

The Routledge Handbook of Translation, Interpreting and Crisis Christophe Declercq, Koen Kerremans, 2023-12-22 This handbook offers a broad-ranging overview of the study of translating and interpreting in conflict and crisis settings and takes the field in new directions. Covering a wide selection of multimodal contexts that build on the fundamentals of translation, interpreting, and their in-between hybrid forms of mediation, the handbook is divided into four parts. The opening part covers perspectives on policy and practices, whether contemporary or historical, and cases truly span the globe, from Peru and Brazil over Belgium and Sierra Leone to Australia, Japan, and Hong Kong. International developments require profound considerations about the professionalisation of access to language in times of crises, not least in contexts of humanitarian negotiation or conflict zone interpreting; these form the second part. The subsequent part deals with spheres of community in which language needs are positioned within frames of agency, positionality, and trust, and the challenges that these face. The contributions build on cases where interpreters act as catalysts for translation needs in settings of humanitarian aid and beyond. The final part considers language strategies and solutions in crises. This handbook is the essential guide to translation and interpreting in conflict and crisis settings for advanced students and researchers of translation and interpreting studies and will be of wide interest in peace studies.
