Distributed Interactive Media:

Distributed Interactive Media M. Mauve, 2000 Networked computer games distributed virtual reality systems and shared whiteboard presentations are prominent examples of distributed interactive media they allow a group of users to interact with the medium itself This book investigates the distributed interactive media class in detail Topics include abstract media model how to ensure consistency an application level protocol and how to develop reusable functionality such as support for late comers and session recording The main intention of this book is to demonstrate that distinct distributed interactive media have many problems in common and to show how to solve these problems in a generic and reusable fashion for the whole media Distributed Interactive Media Martin Mauve, 2000 Interactive Multimedia on Next Generation

Consistency in Continuous Distributed Interactive Media Martin Mauve, 1999 Geographic Hypermedia Emmanuel Stefanakis, Michael P Peterson, Costas Armenakis, Vasilis Delis, 2007-01-04 This book introduces a new paradigm Geographic Hypermedia which emerges from the convergence of Geographic Information Science and permedia technology Both GI Science and hypermedia have been rapidly evolving fields The initial idea of Geographic Hypermedia was born in 2004 when the editors had been invited to organize a workshop in conjunction with the Hypertext conference organized annually by the Special Interest Group of the Association for Computing Machinery The purpose of the workshop was to examine how hypermedia concepts and tools may be applied in geographical domains The workshop was eventually held in conjunction with the Maps and the Internet Commission of the International Cartographic Association at the annual meeting of the Association of American Geographers in Denver Colorado in April 2005 The Denver workshop was a successful event bringing together multidisciplinary researchers and professionals in the area of Geographic Permedia. Researchers from four continents and well recognized institutions presented their work and exchanged opinions about the new paradigm, its content and distinct characteristics from other paradigms. Extended versions of the papers presented at the workshop along with some invited chapters from experts in the field led to the compendium of the twenty five chapters in this book volume. Geographic Hypermedia is not yet a mature paradigm but we aspire to provide the scientific community with a contemporary view of Geographic Hypermedia, present an overview of its progress and current status while also promoting further discussion and research. ACM Multimedia 2001 ACM International Multimedia Conference, 2001

Health and the New Media Linda M. Harris, 2013-11-05 This book presents an evaluation framework for assessing the impact of the new media on the health care system by juxtaposing characteristics of emerging information and communication technologies: interactive, seamlessly connected and user driven, and health care objectives to increase access, improve quality and manage costs. Each chapter provides a unique set of tools and perspectives on how to harness these new media to improve individual health and the health care delivery system. This innovative volume has also stimulated the creation of a Forum on Health and the New Media on the World Wide Web: <http://Health.Dartmouth.edu/NewMedia>. The forum offers highlights of the book as well as links to the authors and related web sites. The volume is divided into six sections as follows: The Overview juxtaposes characteristics of the new media: interactive, connected and user driven, with the three criteria for health care improvement: increased access, improved quality and cost management. It offers a New Media and Health Care matrix of criteria for building and evaluating emerging health care systems. The Delivery how new media can enhance the delivery of health care includes chapters on managed care, demand management and self care, telemedicine for rural residents and how the Internet can be used to facilitate collaboration among health researchers and providers. Health Information: the life blood of health care addresses the potential for extending the traditional flow of health information from researchers to providers to reach patients who want to share in decisions about their care and the federal government's role in providing health information to the public. Health Education discusses integrating multimedia health programming for public schools using networked multimedia and simulation technologies and new learning theories that promise to transform public health education and educating health providers and patients through interactive media and drama. Potholes Along the Highway provides a sobering balance to otherwise rather optimistic assumptions that a national information infrastructure will be forthcoming. The New Media Annotated Glossary provides computing and networking technology tools for readers who are not fluent in cyberlanguage. Managing Football Simon Chadwick, 2010-07-15 Managing Football is the first book to directly respond to the rapid managerial, commercial and global development of the sport and offers a thorough analysis of how the football industry can meet the challenges that flow from these developments.
