Planning for Cultural Diversity Christine Inglis,2008 How to ensure educational equality rights to cultural maintenance and full social participation of minority groups while ensuring social harmony and national development within a democratic society is a major challenge for education policy makers. Traditionally this is viewed as a debate for pedagogues. Nevertheless, there are important implications for educational planners and managers. Given the many varied patterns of ethnic diversity within individual societies and their different educational traditions, no one set of educational responses is universally applicable. However, as discussed in the booklet, there are certain readily identifiable processes to follow in developing responses to cultural diversity. The three main foci of policy responses put forward are the organisation and structures of education curricula, pedagogy, and choice of language and relations between the school and the community.

Journal of Policy Analysis and Management, 1993. Encompasses issues and practices in policy analysis and public management. Listed among the contributors are economists, public managers, and operations researchers. Featured regularly are book reviews and a department devoted to discussing ideas and issues of importance to practitioners, researchers, and academics.

Managing Diversity Sandra Leslie Wong, 2001-12-13. Wong examines how the debate over textbook content can lead to selections based on multicultural content and yet the textbooks have little impact on long-term educational change in actual multicultural teaching in the classroom.

Policy Choices Karen Roberts, Mark I. Wilson, 1996. Policy Choices: Free Trade Among NAFTA Nations is the third volume in a series created to shed light on critical public policy issues in Michigan's future. The articles in this collection are dedicated to a single policy theme: the effect of the integration of the North American economy on Michigan.

Teaching for Equity and Diversity Rovell Patrick Solomon, Cynthia Levine-Rasky, Jordan Singer, 2003. This book is the first national study of Canadian educators' perspectives and practices of multicultural and antiracism education. It explores teachers' perspectives on race and ethno-cultural equity and offers solutions for some of the most pressing social justice and diversity issues facing educators in contemporary Canadian schools and society. Solomon and Levine-Rasky suggest that the ineffectiveness of professional development initiatives to move educators from a posture of resistance to one of transformation points to the need for a more progressive teacher education pedagogy. Based on a proven Urban Diversity Teacher Education model, this book provides theoretically driven practices for simultaneous renewal of teacher education in the university, partnership schools, and the communities they serve. It links the sensitive issues of race, ethnicity, and culture to the broader equity, social justice, and diversity themes in Canadian society and institutions. Teaching for Equity and Diversity will be useful to teachers, graduate students in education, teacher educators, and cultural workers who are committed to inclusive and democratic schooling.
