glass towers that risk reducing their citizens to digital factors of production in the supply chain of big data The third is the Distributed City where technology is deployed with the intent to connect us not virtually but physically from Nairobi's network of innovation spaces to Hamburg's Participatory Budgeting experiments from Barcelona's network for micro manufacturing to Austin's distributed smart grid These are the cities of society's future and they have very different implications for business success and our ability to navigate the social economic and environmental megatrends that confront us Blowfield and Johnson present the DNA of the winners of the future high growth and disruptive businesses emerging from the bottom up and with the capacity to tackle society's biggest challenges head on

Homeownership in Hong Kong

Chung-kin Tsang, 2021-05-24 This book studies the cultural framework of the connections between homeownership and social stability in Hong Kong In the post war period homeownership became the most preferable housing choice in developed societies such as Australia Britain Japan Spain and the United States In the financialization era its proliferation aggregated enormous wealth and debt in the housing and mortgage markets affecting social stability by creating inequality and housing unaffordability Hong Kong is the most extreme example of this among developed societies in recent years the city has made international headlines both for its housing problem and its social instability By studying the history of homeownership in Hong Kong over a period of four decades Chung kin Tsang proposes that homeownership is inseparable from the social imagination of the future conceptualizing this framework as hope mechanism This perspective helps trace the connections between House Buying as a hope mechanism one which is central to subject formation life goals and temporal mapping for socially shared life planning and social stability Given its unique approach specifically its use of hope as an analytical category this book will prove to be a useful resource for scholars in economic culture and financialization and Asian Studies especially those working on the cultural sociopolitical and economic history of Hong Kong
