Never Enough Time Brian H. Spitzberg, 2025-10-24 Never Enough Time discusses the directional and irreversible nature of time its relationship to information and entropy the deep time history of communication from the genesis of language to today and the extent to which we occupy time through our communication Drawing together studies from a wide variety of disciplines and topics that provide quantitative estimates of how much daily time is expended communicating and relating to others the author demonstrates that in an increasingly accelerating mediated and information overloaded ecosystem we spend most of our time both socially and occupationally engaged in various forms of communication He examines the nature of time in the context of our increasingly overloaded and mediated information and communication ecosystem the extent to which our increasing screen time displaces face to face interaction and the implications this trend has for our quality and quantity of life particularly for younger populations In addition a case is made for the importance of developing standardized measures of time made all the more feasible with digital technologies already available for quantifying behavior at population scales This book will appeal to graduate students scholars and researchers interested in time communication theory new media and media studies and communication and personal relationships Congressional Record United States.

Congress, 1976 The Congressional Record is the official record of the proceedings and debates of the United States Congress It is published daily when Congress is in session The Congressional Record began publication in 1873 Debates for sessions prior to 1873 are recorded in The Debates and Proceedings in the Congress of the United States 1789 1824 the Register of Debates in Congress 1824 1837 and the Congressional Globe 1833 1873 Youth and Employment in Sub-Saharan Africa Hiroyuki Hino, Gustav Ranis, 2014-06-05 It is widely acknowledged that youth unemployment is one of the most critical challenges facing countries in Sub Saharan Africa This volume brings together an eminent group of international scholars to analyse the extent and complex nature of this joblessness and offer a set of evidence based policy choices that could contribute to solving the problem in the short and long run Part I reviews the existing literature on youth unemployment and underemployment in Sub Saharan Africa from microeconomic and macroeconomic perspectives while Part II goes on to present detailed country studies of Ethiopia Ghana Kenya and South Africa These studies offer a deep understanding of the situation on the ground and consider country specific solutions Throughout the book it is argued that the standard ILO definition of unemployment is too narrow to correctly portray employment situations in Sub Saharan Africa Several alternative measures of unemployment are presented which show that joblessness is far more pervasive than commonly assumed in the literature This volume will be of interest to academics and policy makers involved in African development
