

Responses to Conflict Poetry

Choose any task from the list for any poem we have studied so far. You could combine more than one task or complete the same task for several poems.

Visual:

- Draw a storyboard of the events in the poem
- Draw an image of a character in the poem, showing how they are feeling at a particular moment
- Create a collage of images that link to words, phrases and ideas in the poem
- Draw your own personal response to the ideas in the poem e.g. how it made you feel, what it made you imagine

Written:

- Rewrite the events of the poem as a short story using a similar semantic field
- Choose a character from a poem and write a diary entry for them before, during and after the events in the poem
- Write your own poem, using the same title and some of the same techniques, but with different events/characters/imagery
- Write a review of the poem, picking out the most effective parts and explaining any parts you don't like and why
- Imagine you are delivering the poem on stage as a monologue, write it out including performance directions e.g. tone of voice, length of pauses, your movement around the stage

Practical:

- Research the poets for the poems we have studied so far. Write a very brief biography of each poet including 3-4 key facts about their life and work that connect to the poem (not just random stuff!). You could include a picture too!
- Write 10 revision questions for each poem we have studied so far. To keep it simple make them either multiple-choice or true/false.
- Make a table, like the one below, collecting key quotations/evidence to create a revision resource. An example has been started to help you.

Poem	Ideas	Language	Structure	Interpretations
Poppies	A mother losing/saying goodbye	Semantic field of textiles,	Free verse suggesting continuous	Parents struggle to let go of memories of children and these can often get mixed
