Creativity And Personality:

Creativity and Personality Type Marci Segal, 2001      The Cambridge Handbook of Creativity and Personality Research Gregory J. Feist, Roni Reiter-Palmon, James C. Kaufman, 2017-01-31 As individual subjects creativity and personality have been the focus of much research and many publications This Cambridge Handbook is the first to bring together these two topics and explores how personality and behavior affects creativity Contributors from around the globe present cutting edge research about how personality traits and motives make creative behavior more likely Many aspects of personality and behavior are examined in the chapters including genius emotions psychopathology entrepreneurship and multiculturalism to analyse the impact of these on creativity The Cambridge Handbook of Creativity and Personality Research will be the definitive resource for researchers students and academics who study psychology personality and creativity      Creativity and Intelligence George Schlager Welsh, 1975      Creative Personality Ralph Tyler Flewelling, 2012-07-01      The Hyper-Creative Personality Blaire Palmer, 2017      The Artist & the Emotional World John E. Gedo, 1996 In this unique blending of clinical experience with in depth biographical study Gedo examines both the necessary traits that prepare a person for a creative career as well as the emotional vicissitudes of such a career the psychological issues talented persons must struggle with in order to be creative He then goes further to discuss crucial developmental experiences that may result in a creative personality childhood experiences the strong possibly negative effect of a possession of talent on personality and the influence of opportunities provided by a creator s environment Gedo also details attributes required of the successful artist the possible need to separate creativity from psychosis and the evolution of psychoanalytic views on creativity      The Relationship Between Personality and Creativity Talana Naude, 2013 The aim of the current study is threefold to develop a creativity questionnaire based on the main criteria for creativity as determined by means of a comprehensive literature survey to administer this questionnaire in combination with the Abbreviated Torrance Test for Adults ATTA and the 16PF for the purpose of determining respondents level of creativity in relation to their personality constellation to determine whether a typical 16PF profile can be obtained for the purpose of identifying a creative individual The sample consisted of fourth year Psychology students at the University of Pretoria Identified problems that motivated the research include amongst others a lack of research in this domain and therefore a need for a reliable and valid measuring instrument for creativity Creative individuals are often misinterpreted or misunderstood by the community as the result of a lack of knowledge The purpose of the research will also be to reduce misconceptions such as these by informing the reader about creativity as well as the individuals who possess this unique characteristic Creativity is however an extremely broad concept which is very difficult to define and only the main criteria for creativity were applied in the development of the Creativity Questionnaire According to Ryhammar Brolin 1999 creative individuals can be described as being motivated persevering intellectually inquisitive having a need for self actualisation independent in thought and deed confident self aware and open to external and internal stimulation Operationalisation of such criteria formed the basis of the Creativity Questionnaire The dissertation reports on the development of a Creativity Questionnaire which can be used in a variety of areas but will need further revision and refinement in terms of items included validity and reliability Therefore the current study should be considered as a pilot study for the testing and development of this questionnaire The results of this investigation confirm and extend previous research in demonstrating a close association between creativity and specific personality traits Creative subjects as measured by the ATTA indicated that they perceive themselves to be significantly more independent in thought open to experience dominant individualistic and competent than less creative subjects Both subjects with average and high creativity levels indicated that they tend to be more resourceful self sufficient and prefer to make their own decisions These subjects tend to be more abstract thinking and bright Both subjects with low creativity levels and subjects with high creativity levels indicated that they tend to be more spontaneous socially bold uninhibited and venturesome than subjects with average creativity levels The latter subjects tend to be more restrained sensitive to threats timid and shy Subjects with low creativity levels on the other hand indicated that they tend to be more outgoing participating warm hearted and easy going than subjects with an average creativity level The latter subject group tends to be more critical detached and reserved Subjects with low creativity levels also seem to be joiners sound followers and group dependent These subjects also indicated that they tend to be more concrete thinking and less intelligent than subjects with average and high creativity levels

Creativity James C. Kaufman, Robert J. Sternberg, 2021-04-08 This textbook is a systematic and straightforward introduction to the interdisciplinary study of creativity Each chapter is written by one or more of the world's experts and features the latest research developments alongside foundational knowledge Each chapter also includes an introduction key terms and critical thought questions to promote active learning Topics and authors have been selected to represent a comprehensive and balanced overview Any reader will come away with a deeper understanding of how creativity is studied and how they can improve their own creativity

The GAM/DP Theory of Personality and Creativity William A. Therivel, 2008 The Author writes I see myself as a scientist who has discovered some very important factors in the development of individuals and civilizations and my theory is an explanation of both what makes people highly creative and what makes societies grow prosper and decline The author encapsulates his theory with the acronym GAM DP GAM Individual Three factors contribute to the development of personality and creativity of the individual Good genetic endowment G e g intelligence temperaments specific talents and by valid assistances A e g from parents schools books when combined with major misfortunes M of youth e g early parental death physical infirmity stimulates a personality which conflicts with society providing in that tension material for creativity DP Society A society is creative where it develops within long periods when power is fought or grudgingly shared Such division of power DP e g between emperor and pope between state and church between two or more major ideologies fosters critical thinking People begin to mistrust the power holder

They have the courage to speak their mind to be creative on matters that are not those wanted by the power holder This important revolutionary theory combines for the first time these two aspects of personality and creativity those particular to a given number of a social group GAM as well as those unique to that society DP In this volume VI Therivel has researched extensively on Tagore s High GxAxMXDP the high creativity of Rabbinic Judaism and its Talmud and Nine Eminent Women This theory applies equally to Eastern and Western creators Eastern and Western civilization and women The Oxford Handbook of Group Creativity and Innovation Paul B.
