Think Big! RoseMary Ludt, 2020-07-01 Think Big A Resource Manual for Library Programs That Attract Large Teen Audiences is a how to manual for librarians who want to attract large groups of teens to their libraries with meaningful memorable events Large programs may seem to be impossible to attempt until the project is broken down into the separate parts needed Think Big begins with those separate parts necessary to create a large event starting with the logistics of time and place the budget and how to find funding making a timeline to make everything fall into place communication among all of the people involved marketing to the teen audience troubleshooting with thorough preparation and the importance of evaluations for reporting and for future planning

Part 2 is a collection of best practices Seventeen successful large programs are included contributed by librarians who have dared to think big and made it work Included are the book and author programs in school and public libraries There are also creative programs about poetry and dance STEM activities pop culture and school and work Every section has two to four programs Each program explains how the program began and evolved to the event it is today A timeline how the program was financed who assisted to make every step successful how the program was publicized and how evaluations were collected and written are provided in detail to empower a librarian to tackle their first time big program

Saxophone Journal ,2002 Constitutional Courts, Media and Public Opinion Angioletta Sperti,2023-11-16 This book explores how constitutional courts have transformed communication and overcome their reluctance to engage in direct dialogue with citizens How has the information revolution affected the relationship of constitutional courts with the public and the media The book looks in detail at the communication strategies of the US Supreme Court the Supreme Court of Canada and in Europe the German Federal Constitutional Tribunal the French Conseil Constitutionnel and the Italian Constitutional Court arguing that when it comes to the relationship between courts and the media different jurisdictions share many similarities It focuses on the consequences of the communication revolution of courts both in terms of their relationship with public opinion and of the legitimacy of judicial review of legislation Some constitutional courts have attracted criticism by engaging in proactive communication and therefore arguably yielding to the temptation of public support The book argues that objections to the developing institutional communications employed by courts come from a preconceived notion of public opinion It considers the burden the communication revolution has placed on constitutional courts to achieve a balance between transparency and seclusion proximity and distance from public opinion It puts forward important arguments for how this balance can be achieved The book will interest scholars in constitutional law and public comparative law sociologists historians political scientists and scholars of media law and communication studies
