Constructivism In International Relations The Politics Of Reality:

Constructivism in International Relations Maja Zehfuss, 2002-07-25 Maja Zehfuss book offers a fundamental critique of constructivism focusing on the work of Wendt Onuf and Kratochwil Using Germany's shift towards participation in international military operations as an illustration she demonstrates why each version of constructivism fails in its own project and comes apart on the basis of its own assumptions Inspired by Derridean thought this book highlights the political consequences of constructivist representations of reality Each critique concludes that constructivist notions of key concepts are impossible and that this is not merely a question of theoretical inconsistency but of politics The book is premised on the notion that the empirical and the theoretical are less separate than is acknowledged in international relations and must be read as intertwined Zehfuss examines the scholars role in international relations worrying that by looking to constructivism as the future they will be severely curtailing their ability to act responsibly in this area Handbook of International Relations Walter Carlsnaes, Thomas Risse, Thomas Risse-Kappen, Beth A Simmons, 2002 NEW IN PAPERBACK FEBRUARY 2005 The most systematic and wide ranging survey of the multi faceted field of International Relations yet produced It is sure to become a standard reference work and teaching text and is unlikely to be superseded at any time in the near future It should be considered as essential reading International Affairs The Handbook of International Relations published 2002 in hardback quickly established itself as the benchmark volume providing a state of the art review and indispensable guide to the study of international relations It is now released in paperback in order to be accessible to students in classroom use Divided into three parts the volume reviews both the historical philosophical analytical and normative roots to the discipline and the key contemporary topics of research and debate today The first part introduces the major approaches within the field and unpacks many of the on going debates within the discipline including those between rationalist and constructivist approaches The second part moves on to explore the key concepts and contextual factors important to the subject from concepts like the state and power to international and transnational actors debates around globalization and contending feminist perspectives The final part reviews a number of the key substantive issues in international relations and is designed to complement the analytical tools and perspectives presented in Parts I and II Examples of the many topics included are foreign policy war and peace security nationalism and ethnicity finance trade development the environment and human rights International Relations' Last Synthesis? J. Samuel Barkin, Laura Sjoborg, 2019-02-12 Many scholars intentionally or unintentionally have entangled constructivisms and critical theories in problematic ways either by assigning a critical theoretical politics to constructivisms or by assuming the appropriateness of constructivist epistemology and methods for critical theorizing IR's Last Synthesis makes the argument that these connections mirror IR's grand theoretical syntheses of the 1980s and 1990s and have similar constraining effects on the possibilities of IR theory They have been made without adequate reflection in contradiction to the base assumptions of each theoretical perspective and to the detriment of both knowledge accumulation about global politics and theoretical rigor in disciplinary IR. It is not that constructivisms and critical theories have no common ground; rather, the fact that it has become routine for IR scholars to overstate their common ground is counterproductive to the discovery and utilization of their potential dialogues. To that end, IR's Last Synthesis argues that scholars using the two in conjunction should be cognizant of rather than gloss over the tensions between the approaches and the tools they have to offer. Along these lines, the book uses the concept of affordances to look at what each has to offer the other and to argue for a modest reflective specified return to constructivist and critical IR theorizing. By rejecting its over-simple syntheses, this book hews a road toward reviving IR theorizing.

Law and Politics in Peaceful Use of Nuclear Energy Xinjun Zhang, 2024-10-28. This book analyzes the law and politics in the peaceful use of nuclear energy. The inalienable right as provided for in Article IV of the Treaty on the Non-proliferation of Nuclear Weapons (NPT) has unexpectedly been an interpretation riddle which has brought about many controversies among NPT Party States like those in the 1970s between the U.S. and its allies and today in the Iranian nuclear problem and in the North Korean nuclear crisis. This book offers a detailed review and analysis of the lifetime of the norm on the right to the peaceful use of nuclear energy, what factors give rise to a possible design of the dynamic treaty obligation, how they are made in drafting the relevant treaty provisions, and how subsequent practice plays a role in the interpretation. The usefulness of the general rule of interpretation is also challenged in this book, and an interdisciplinary perspective on interpretation is otherwise proposed to better understand the interplay of the law and politics in the nuclear nonproliferation regime.

Perceptions of the European Union's Identity in International Relations Anna Skolimowska, 2018-12-07. This book examines the perception of European Union's identity by the main actors in international relations. Analysing issues related to public discourse in third countries as demonstrated by amongst others their political elites, civil society and think tanks, the book highlights a normative gap with regards to the European Union's self-definition, perception and its perception in the international environment. It also shows that the European Union's perception of normative power in international relations is not shared consistently by the main principal actor yet is differentiated relative to geographical area and scope of activities undertaken by the EU. It demonstrates that the perception of the EU's normative identity is a source of the crisis of the European Union as an effective and significant player in the international arena. This book will be of key interest to scholars and students of European Union politics, European politics studies, European integration, identity politics and international relations.

One Policy Many Identities Hasan Ulusoy, 2007. Breaking Monotheism Jeremiah W. Cataldo, 2014-03-13. This work offers a social scientific analysis of Yehud and uses that analysis to construct a model through which to analyze later monotheistic religious developments.

Creating Identity Through Delimitation Marion Klotz,2007-08 Seminar paper from the year 2006 in the subject Politics International Politics Topic European Union grade 1 0 Johannes Gutenberg University Mainz Institut f r Politikwissenschaft course Hauptseminar China in World Politics language English abstract The EU s weapons embargo on China has been in place since the Tiananmen Square Massacre in 1989 After some aspects of the embargo had been lifted in the autumn of 1990 there was no real discussion about the relevance and the necessity of it for years In 2003 however some European states notably France and Germany suggested that the embargo should be lifted in order to normalize the relationship between the EU and China and to pave the way for further economic and political ties between the two powers Predictably the United States has since been lobbying vehemently against lifting the embargo In early 2005 the decision was postponed after massive US pressure as well as the ratification of the Chinese Anti Secession Law in which the PRC threatened to use military force against Taiwan Furthermore inner European problems with the ratification of the new constitution lead to stalling of other projects including the Code of Conduct and the Toolbox without which the embargo cannot be lifted The question itself has not been forgotten however and most analysts expect the embargo to be lifted sooner rather than later A rift in the transatlantic relationship between the EU and the US thus seems unavoidable The European Union as well as the PRC emphasize that lifting the embargo would be a symbolic move rather than the prelude to increased weapon transfers from Europe to China The question remains however why the EU would see benefit in the symbolic change of policy when it would cause such anxiety in the heart of arguably their most significant true partner in the national security arena David Shambaugh see Lawrence 2004 28 One basic assumption of this paper is that the EU is Perspectives ,2006 Political Science Quarterly ,2009 International Bibliography of Book Reviews of Scholarly Literature Chiefly in the Fields of Arts and Humanities and the Social Sciences ,2003 Politeia ,2004 English and Afrikaans with abstracts in English

Wheeler,2008 Focusing on a range of regional cases the book evaluates the respective weight of national interest and internationalist solidarity considerations Ultimately while classical national interest considerations remain to this day a powerful motivation for power projection the book shows how an enlightened conception of national interest can encompass solidarity concerns and how such a balancing of the imperatives of both national interest and solidarity is the major challenge
