

Congress of the United States

Whereas the Congress of the United States, assembled at the City of New York, on the first day of September, 1786, and having taken the Oath of Allegiance to the United States, and having considered the Petition of the People of the State of New York, for the establishment of a National Bank, do hereby resolve, That the same be referred to a select committee of the whole, consisting of the Messrs. [names], to report thereon at the next Session of the Congress.

We the People

IN CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776.

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America.

When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.—That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.—That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly, all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security.—Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies, and such has been the unity of their Sentiments in their Declaration of Independence, that in the Name of the most Holy Trinity, they do hereby sever from every Alliance with Great Britain, and by the Authority of the said Declaration, they do hereby dissolve the Union between them and that Kingdom, as well as all other Attachments and Connections thereto, and they do hereby declare themselves free and independent States, united as one Nation in Blood, and in the Pursuit of Liberty and Happiness.

And for the support of this Declaration, we have signed our Names, and the Signatures of the Messrs. [names], in the Name of the People of the said Colonies, we have hereunto set our Hands and Affixed the Seal of the said Colonies, at the City of New York, the fourth day of July, 1776.

In Witness Whereof, we have hereunto set our Hands and Affixed the Seal of the said Colonies, at the City of New York, the fourth day of July, 1776.
