Constraints And Opportunities Of Leadership In Post Communist Europe:

Constraints and Opportunities of Leadership in Post-Communist Europe Timothy Haughton, 2005 Taking Slovakia as a case study this volume investigates the role of leadership and political leaders in post communist Europe In particular it explores the role played by the three time Prime Minister Vladimir Meciar in determining the course of Slovak politics in the 1990s Building on the concepts of constraint and opportunity and the strategic relational approach Tim Haughton advances an arena based model of leadership The volume will be of particular interest to advanced students of Central and East European politics and political scientists interested in issues of leadership Contents Introduction Assessing the role of political leaders in a post Communist country The leader and his party The leader and the coalition The leader and the institutional framework of politics The leader and public opinion The leader and the wider world the role of the international environment Putting Meciar in comparative perspective the role of political leaders in post Communist Europe Bibliography Index

Institutional Design and Party Government in Post-communist Europe Csaba Nikolenyi, 2014 This books examines the institutional foundations of coalition government in the ten post communist democracies of Eastern and Central Europe for the 1990 2010 period Bulgaria the Czech Republic Estonia Hungary Latvia Lithuania Poland Romania Slovakia and Slovenia Its central argument is that differences in the arrangement of political institutions systematically explain variations in patterns of multi party government across these states The book starts with the premise that electoral systems and constitutional provisions about the powers the structure and the relationship between parliament and the presidency determine the degree to which political power is dispersed or concentrated in the political system On the basis of these institutional features three groups of states are distinguished with regard to their degree of power concentration the substantive chapters of the book demonstrate how these institutional combinations and differences shape three specific facets of party government which capture the main stages of the lifecycle of coalitions governments the formation of electoral coalitions government formation and government duration Specifically three comparative chapters assess the impact of institutional power concentration on the size of electoral coalitions the likelihood that political parties form a minority government and the number of days that a government lasts in office The main finding of the book is that power concentration matters political parties in those democracies where institutions are designed to concentrate political power tend to form large electoral coalitions they tend to form majority rather than undersized governments and they build more durable cabinets In addition the book contains a detailed case study of government formation in Hungary and a previously unstudied comparison of indirect presidential elections in four states the Czech Republic Estonia Hungary and Latvia

Comparative Politics is a series for students teachers and researchers of political science that deals with contemporary government and politics Global in scope books in the series are characterised by a stress on comparative analysis and strong methodological rigour The series is published in association with the European Consortium for Political Research For more
