Constructions Of Power And Piety In Medieval Aleppo:

Constructions of Power and Piety in Medieval Aleppo Yasser Tabbaa, 2010-11-01 Tabbaa argues that the intense palatial and religious architectural activity of the period was intended to create a royal image of the Ayyubid state while also fostering links between it and the urban population. His study is based on an entirely new evaluation of the architectural and epigraphic aspects of the standing monuments of the period. It presents for the first time full photographic coverage of these monuments as well as many new plans and other renderings and pays close attention to monumental inscriptions correcting and augmenting previous studies. The book utilizes the full panoply of the available literary sources including topographies, chronicles, travel accounts, and poetry.

The Medieval Mediterranean City Felicity Ratté, 2021-08-18 This book is a study of architecture and urban design across the Mediterranean Sea from the 12th to the 14th Century, a time when there was no single hegemonic power dominating the area. The focus of the study is four cities on the Italian peninsula and four in Syria and Egypt. It is the interconnectedness of the design and use of urban structures, streets, and open space. Each chapter offers an historical analysis of the buildings and spaces used for trade, education, political display, and public action. The work includes historical and social analyses of the mercantile, social, political, and educational cultures of the eight cities, highlighting similarities and differences between Christian and Islamic practices. Sixteen new maps drawn specifically for this book are based on the writings of medieval travelers.

A History of Social Justice and Political Power in the Middle East Linda T. Darling, 2013-05-02 From ancient Mesopotamia into the 20th century, the Circle of Justice as a concept has pervaded Middle Eastern political thought and underpinned the exercise of power in the Middle East. The Circle of Justice depicts graphically how a government's justice toward the population generates political power, military strength, prosperity, and good administration. This book traces this set of relationships from its earliest appearance in the political writings of the Sumerians through four millennia of Middle Eastern culture. It explores how people conceptualized and acted upon this powerful insight, how they portrayed it in symbol, painting, and story, and how they transmitted it from one regime to the next. Moving towards the modern day, the author shows how, although the Circle of Justice was largely dropped from political discourse, it did not disappear from people's political culture and expectations of government. The book demonstrates the Circle's relevance to the Iranian Revolution and the rise of Islamist movements all over the Middle East and suggests how the concept remains relevant in an age of capitalism. A must-read for students, policymakers, and ordinary citizens, this book will be an important contribution to the areas of political history, political theory, Middle East studies, and Orientalism.

Architecture, Power and Religion in Lebanon Ward Vloeberghs, 2015-11-24 In Architecture, Power and Religion in Lebanon, Ward Vloeberghs explores Rafiq Hariri's patronage and his posthumous legacy to demonstrate how religious architecture becomes a site for power struggles in contemporary Beirut. By tracing the 150-year-long history of the Muhammad al-Amin Mosque, Lebanon's principal Sunni mosque, and the subsequent development of the site as a commemoration venue, this account offers a unique illustration of how architecture religion and power become discursively and visually entangled Set in a multi confessional society marked by social inequalities and political fragmentation this interdisciplinary study analyses how architectural practice and urban reconfigurations reveal a nascent personality cult communal mourning and the consolidation of political territory in relation to constantly shifting circumstances Material Evidence and Narrative Sources Daniella J.
