Consumer Society Myths And Structures:

The Consumer Society Jean Baudrillard, 2016-12-13 Jean Baudrillard's classic text was one of the first to focus on the process and meaning of consumption in contemporary culture. Originally published in 1970, the book makes a vital contribution to current debates on consumption. The book includes Baudrillard's most organized discussion of mass media culture, the meaning of leisure and anomie in affluent society. A chapter on the body demonstrates Baudrillard's extraordinary prescience for flagging vital subjects in contemporary culture long before others. This English translation begins with a new introductory essay.

The Consumer Society Jean Baudrillard, 2017 Credit and Consumer Society Dawn Burton, 2012-08-06 The language of credit and debt is almost ubiquitous in daily life. In advanced modern societies, financial institutions and other organizations have become increasingly active in lending money to consumers, and consumers apparently more than willing to take advantage. This groundbreaking new book offers an analysis of this important phenomenon, arguing that we have entered an era in which credit and debt are sanctioned, delivered, and collected through new cultural and economic mechanisms. Written in an accessible and straightforward style, the book takes a multi-disciplinary approach, examining consumer credit and debt in both societal and economic contexts. It explores key topics such as the historical context of credit and debt, current theories of a consumer-centred society, the credit industry, attempts at government regulation, and consumer credit and debt as a discipline in its own right. It is important reading for students and researchers in business and management, finance, public policy, and sociology, as well as for policy makers and consumer groups working directly in this field.

The Coming of Consumer Society, 2025-10-27 The present volume adds momentum to the ongoing discourse on consumerism in India and offers a fresh perspective by arguing that India is not just a consumer market but a consumer society in the making. There is no consensus on the birth place and context of a consumer society amongst historians. And for scholars of contemporary social life, consumer societies till recently were held to be akin to societies in the late stage of capitalism or those having completed their transition from feudalism to post-industrialism. However, given the processes of globalization and liberalization of the new global economic order, consumerism as an ideology, a world view, and a practice is fast coming of age in other societies across the globe. Hence, the earlier intellectual lexicon stands replaced by a new consumer epistemology, signalling the coming of new consumer societies in hitherto unimagined locales such as India. The varied essays in the volume develop the themes of consumption brands representation and identity construction in some new settings so far unexplored in the Indian context for instance ethnic brands such as Fabindia tribal art in new digitized forms fashion and so on The strength of the book lies in traversing not just fresh sites and objects of consumer desire but also in bringing together a host of multidisciplinary and theoretical perspectives such as Marxism feminism postmodernism and post colonialism The book would be of interest to students and researchers of sociology anthropology politics cultural studies and media studies
